

EDEN IN ACTION

U.K. Final Results In

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters).—The final results of last Thursday's British general election came in today, leaving Winston Churchill's Conservative government with an overall majority in the House of Commons of 18.

The last constituency to report was the Western Isles—the fishing isles off the Scottish coast—where M. K. Macmillan was re-elected as a Labor member.

Earlier today, the Argyll constituency in West Scotland reported the re-election of Conservative Major Duncan McCallum.

Only one constituency was without a representative in parliament. That is Barnsley, where the death of the Labor candidate forced postponement of the election.

The latest return leaves standing in the 625-seat house:

Labor	294
Conservatives	321
Liberals	6
Others	3
Deferred	1

In Western Isles, Macmillan had a margin of 1,330 over the Conservative candidate—1,007 less than in 1950.

He received 8,039 votes as against 6,709 for Conservative J. Mitchell, 916 for Liberal D. Murray and 820 for M. McLean, Scottish Nationalist.

The Argyll race was a two-party contest.

Liberal Leader Rejects Government Cabinet Bid

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP).—The Liberals conditionally promised their six House of Commons votes Sunday night to bolster the narrow Conservative majority, but Liberal Leader Clement Davies said "no" to a cabinet bid from Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The Liberals said their six members would swell the Tories' 18-seat majority on "measures clearly conceived in the interest of the country as a whole." Davies, however, after a second week-end conference with Churchill, announced he "felt unable to accept" the Conservative leader's offer of a post in the cabinet. The Prime Minister still was forming.

Churchill has named eight key members to his government and hoped to complete the line-up before parliament reconvenes Wednesday.

Conservative Move May Indicate Oil Talk Trend

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP).—Decisions anticipated from Britain's new Conservative government may determine this week whether there is to be an early settlement of the British-Iranian oil dispute.

The United States is believed to be urging action by both parties to arrive at an agreement while Premier Mohammed Mosaddegh of Iran is still in Washington.

The question before the British government, according to informed quarters, is whether to negotiate on terms which Mosaddegh has indicated are acceptable.

While conversations of top American officials with the Iranian leader have been conducted in secret, the Iranians are reported to be insisting that any settlement must provide for complete Iranian control of oil production in their country. They are understood to be willing to negotiate with Britain for an arrangement which would permit British marketing of the oil.

Order Tehran Ambassador Back For London Meeting

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden directed Britain's ambassador in Tehran today to return to London immediately for consultation on the Anglo-Iranian oil row.

Eden's action was his first publicly announced official move since taking over as foreign secretary in the new Conservative government of Winston Churchill. Britain's envoy in the Iranian capital is Sir Francis Shepherd. His recall presumably means that Eden is seeking a way to reopen the stalled negotiations with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's billion-dollar properties.

As matters now stand, Iran is in physical possession of the properties—including the huge Abadan refinery. The international court at The Hague recommended in July that a five-man board be chosen to supervise continued operation of the properties under British management, pending further negotiation. Iran turned the idea down.

Elizabeth Responding To Canadian Reception

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were in Montreal today for perhaps the biggest "do" of their Canadian tour.

ROYAL JESTER SCORES LAUGH

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 29 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth got her biggest laugh of the Royal tour today in a dull grain elevator.

While she and Prince Philip inspected the elevator, Corey Thompson, broadcaster for station CKVL at Verdun, Que., loaded his black bowler hat with grain.

As the Princess passed about four feet away he politely doffed the hat, showing her his shoulders with kernels.

The Princess stopped suddenly, then laughed loudly with Philip.

C. B. Holmes... believes in fairies?

BLUE MONDAY?

Rains Pounds For City Pair

It was anything but a "blue Monday" today for 74-year-old Charles Bertram Holmes, 1026 Collinson, and Jack Leonard, Douglas Street men's store proprietor.

Both received news over the weekend they have drawn tickets on the Cambridgehire Irish hospitals sweepstakes.

"It's once in a lifetime," cried Holmes, a widower, who shared his jubilation with his faithful old Welsh corgi, "Royal Mail."

Holmes drew Stromboli in Wednesday's race. He stands to win $329 sterling or about $1,000 no matter how his horse finishes. Leonard said his telegram assured him his ticket was worth $100 sterling. He does not know yet whether he won a consolation prize or has drawn a horse.

TRYING FOR 40 YEARS

"Everything evens up in the end, I guess," related Holmes. "I've been trying for over 40 years, and all I've won before has been a few dollars now and then." A native of Croydon, Eng., Holmes has resided here for 15 years. He previously lived in Edmonton, where he was a building contractor.

"I still do a bit of work now and then," he said. "But I guess I'll take it easy for a while now that I've played in some luck." When Holmes gets his bonanza, he'll be safe at home.

"Royal Mail's the best little watchdog in the world," he said. "He'd tear the leg off anybody who tried to get in."

THREE ON MAINLAND

Three lower mainland residents also have drawn horses which have brought $150,000 looks of happiness to their faces. John W. Skelton, Vancouver, drew "Raising Flame." Don Carter, New Westminster, drew "Fair Eldest." Hector Herniman, Britannia Mines, horse not known.

Want Referee

HALIFAX, Oct. 29 (CP).—Two union locals comprising 900 men today asked conciliation services in their contract dispute with Halifax Shipyard Ltd. and the marine slip at nearby Dartmouth. The locals of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of Canada (C.I.O.) are asking that the basic laborer's rate be boosted from 97 cents an hour to $1.37 and the journeyman's rate from $1.32 to $1.72.

Premier Manning and Solon Low are tryin' t' start a Sacred party here. But if th' local maverick youngsters run true t' form it'll likely be a case o' Solon It's Been Good T' Know Ya.

With th' election over, Attlee is back on th' left o' Mr. Speaker, and Bevan is back on th' left o' Mr. Attlee.

Looks like we're goin' t' keep th' Buttle Lake question on ice—till February.

B.C.H.I.S. Rupture May Bring Crisis

Hurried Meetings Over Break Between Board and Minister

A sharp clash between the Legislature's special hospital insurance inquiry board and the provincial cabinet created a delicate situation today on the B.C. political scene.

Liberal cabinet ministers were still conferring on the problem, and although no formal statements have been made, it may lead to serious repercussions.

Focal point is the attack made by Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull Saturday on a recommendation made by the inquiry board that cuts made by the B.C.H.I.S. in hospital budgets should be restored.

The inquiry board—in a recommendation which the government at first kept dark, then released in the Legislature—said there had been "no rhyme nor reason" in the cutting of hospital budgets.

Turnbull, in reply, criticized the inquiry board as not having obtained all the facts about the budget cuts.

Immediately Turnbull's statement appeared, Sidney Smith, M.L.A. for Kamloops, held a long conference with Premier Johnson and Liberal cabinet members Saturday afternoon.

At a meeting Saturday night in Woodsworth Hall here, C.C.F. leader Harold Winch, also a member of the inquiry board, declared Turnbull should either resign his cabinet post or demand the board's resignation.

British Shoot Egypt Woman

Country Moves Toward Complete War Footing With General Troop Mobilization

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 29 (AP).—A British military spokesman said today an Egyptian woman was killed and her male companion wounded by British troops who fired on their automobile as they tried to crash through a British roadblock in the embattled Suez Canal zone.

The spokesman said an Egyptian officer immediately made an official protest against the shooting, which occurred Sunday night after a week-end lull in the canal zone.

Egypt meanwhile moved toward a war footing. The Egyptian State Council, which has the status of a supreme court, Sunday approved general mobilization of manpower and drafting of all Egyptians between 18 and 50 "in case of war or threat of war."

It also provided for setting up a high council of war headed by Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasha. This latest move in the British-Egyptian squabble over the Suez and the Sudan needs only formal cabinet approval to become law.

The council acted as Egypt's official informed Britain of her parliamentary act two weeks ago, joining the two treaties providing for British sharing in the defence of the Suez Canal and in the rule of the vast cotton-growing Sudan.

Britain has refused to recognize the one-sided act and has poured thousands of troops reinforcements into the canal zone. She holds military control of the canal, despite Egyptian labor, food and water supply boycotts.

Sources close to the government said the cabinet would speed final approval of the bill to be ready for any developments.

There appeared to be some confusion over Sunday night's shooting, which occurred at Tel el Kebir, 20 miles west of Ismailia, scene of bloody rioting two weeks ago.

The British spokesman said troops manning the roadblock fired after the automobile "tried to crash through." Egyptians claimed British soldiers searching a bus at a Tel el Kebir control point killed a woman passenger.

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Oct. 29 (AP).—The pro-Egyptian Ashiga party said today the Sudan constituent commission has no authority to speak for the Sudan's 8,000,000 people.

A statement in Mutamar, official party organ, assailed the British-appointed commission for asking the United Nations to set up an international commission to supervise steps toward self-government in the Sudan.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL
MUNSAI, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP).—Allied and Communist negotiators failed again today to make any progress toward agreement on location of an armistice buffer zone in Korea.

Today's discussions were completely inconclusive, the official U.N. spokesman announced.

Subcommittees of the main armistice delegations met 3 1/2 hours in Panmunjom. They scheduled their sixth meeting for 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. Monday EST).

Each side has proposed a demarcation line. The U.N. wants it generally to follow the current battle line, mostly in North Korea.

The Reds want the Allies to pull back as much as 15 miles, giving up such hard-won positions as the Iron Triangle, the Punchbowl and Heartbreak Ridge. In exchange, they offered the Ongjin Peninsula in the west. The U.N. says that has little military value.

Allied negotiators rejected the Communist plan and said it could not be considered "any further."

Med. A-Bomb
BLASTS DESERT
LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 29 (AP).—A dazzling new weapon in America's atomic bag—a medium-sized bomb with a lazy, after-glow—was dropped over the Nevada desert Sunday.

The bomb, apparently dropped from an Air Force B-29, exploded with a high flash and after-glow, visible on Mount Charleston, 50 miles away.

The ball of fire seared against a purple mountain background at 7:20 a.m., P.S.T. (9:20 a.m., E.S.T.). For several brief moments it put the bright morning sun to shame.

The low rates on parcels and air mail letters will be effective for whatever points in Europe Canadian army and air force personnel may be stationed.

Effective immediately, parcels for the Canadian forces in Europe will get a special concessional postage rate of 15 cents a pound, up to a limit of 10 pounds. They must be addressed with the number, rank, unit of the serviceman and sent to C.A.P.O. 5050 or 5051, care of the postmaster, Montreal.

Special Rates For Army Mail
OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP).—Special reduced rates will apply on certain categories of mail for Canadian forces serving with Gen. Eisenhower's Western European army, the post office announced today.

The low rates on parcels and air mail letters will be effective for whatever points in Europe Canadian army and air force personnel may be stationed.

Effective immediately, parcels for the Canadian forces in Europe will get a special concessional postage rate of 15 cents a pound, up to a limit of 10 pounds. They must be addressed with the number, rank, unit of the serviceman and sent to C.A.P.O. 5050 or 5051, care of the postmaster, Montreal.

Won't Take Dictation

Smith this morning had further meetings with the government, but neither he nor Turnbull would make any statement.

Don Brown, M.L.A. for Burrard, also a board member, declared in Vancouver: "He (referring to Turnbull) thinks he is right. We think we are right. It's up to him to prove us wrong. We were given certain wide powers and we intend to use them."

"We are not going to take dictation from anybody. We will not be pushed around. We'll stay and do a job. There never has been a government board with so much responsibility on it as this one. There is entire unity on the board."

Winch termed Turnbull's statements "completely unethical," adding they were tantamount to want of confidence in the board.

"If anybody knows anything about hospital insurance it is the inquiry board," he declared. "We sat down with 56 hospital boards, and heard their problems."

The Opposition Leader said Turnbull's statements seem to give the impression he thought he had a "whitewash board."

"Instead, he has a working board determined to find a solution to the problem," he said. He said Turnbull tried to influence the board to withdraw the recommendation because he didn't like it.

"Because he didn't like one of the recommendations, he issued a blast at us," Winch declared. "The hospital inquiry board was appointed by the Legislature at its spring session and has been sitting at numerous points in the province during the summer."

Two weeks ago it made five interim recommendations of which the government adopted four, dealing with: premium delinquency and other phases of the insurance scheme. The fifth concerned the hospital budget cuts.

The board is slated to hold further sittings before drafting its final report to the House next spring.

Hunts Fishboat
An R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue plane was aloft again today on a search for a fishing boat, with two aboard, missing for over a week on a trip to Victoria from Ucluelet, on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The 35-foot boat is the "Pluto" and her crew when she left Ucluelet at 6:30 in the morning a week ago Sunday included Walter Chalmers and Norm McLean.

Pluto is 25 feet long, with a broad-beamed hull, black trimmed with white-topped green poles, which will carry them into next week, if not longer.

As far as the strike is concerned, there is still no sign of settlement. The Brewery Workers Union is keeping its 24-hour picket line around Proxier Brewery on Government Street.

E. C. Sims, chief union spokesman, said in Vancouver over the week-end:

"There is no indication the strike will be a long one. It was six days old today."

VANCOUVER HIT
VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP).—The beer famine in Vancouver is becoming more serious and beer parlor patrons face a dry future—for at least a time.

At least two Vancouver beer parlors are displaying "sold right out" signs. Others are serving only small quantities of bottled beer, and a few that still have some draught beer report their taps will be dry by tonight.

Meanwhile, there appears no indication of a break in the dispute which has resulted in the strike of some 400 workers at four major breweries.

The employees, members of the International Union of Brewery and Distillery Workers (C.I.O.), are sticking to their demand for a wage increase of 35-cents an hour.

First Tavern Taps Dry; Beer Strike Cuts Supply

One Esquimalt tavern has been forced to close its doors because of the brewery strike; and most of its competitors face the same prospect in about three days.

First place to have its tap run dry is Tudor House. It closed Saturday night and will remain closed until the strike ends and the flow of beer begins again.

Half-Way House in Esquimalt has sufficient draught beer for today and enough bottled beer for about three days after that.

Operators of Colwood Hotel and Six-Mile premises reported enough beer for "a few days yet."

A spokesman for the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association in Victoria said the supply there would last until about Wednesday.

DRY WITHIN DAYS
The three Legion branches in town have a very limited stock which is not expected to last till the end of the week, and which could go dry in a matter of days.

"It all depends on how thrifty the boys get," the legion branch secretary declared.

The Tillikum Athletic Club has beer for a couple of days, it was learned. Eagles' and Elks' homes are in a more favorable position and have sizeable stocks on hand.

which will carry them into next week, if not longer.

As far as the strike is concerned, there is still no sign of settlement. The Brewery Workers Union is keeping its 24-hour picket line around Proxier Brewery on Government Street.

E. C. Sims, chief union spokesman, said in Vancouver over the week-end:

TWO BURNED BY PRANKSTERS

Hunt Acid-Throwing Hoodlums Here

By ROY THORSEN

A wide-spread police hunt continued today for three young hoodlums wearing Halloween masks, one of whom disfigured a city man's face with acid Saturday night in Saanich—and might have blinded him.

Victim of the vicious unprovoked assault was Edward Vincent Smith, 31, of 1028 Pendergast.

He is in Jubilee Hospital being treated for the painful acid burns, which are likely to leave his face marked for life.

Smith is a veteran of the Royal Navy in World War II. He lives with his mother, Mrs. Marion Smith, and lately has been working as a gardener.

INSTINCTIVE REACTION

It is believed that Smith instinctively closed his eyes before the acid hit his face. The physician attending him said his eyesight would not be impaired.

According to Sgt. Jack Hamilton, in charge of the investigation, shortly after Smith alighted from a bus in the 3400 block on Maplewood, he was approached by the masked trio.

They asked him for a Halloween mask.

Smith told police that he jokingly inquired of the three boys, aged between 14 and 16 years, if they weren't "rushing things a little."

THOUGHT IT WATER
The reply was the contents of what is believed to have been a water pistol squirted in Smith's face by one of the boys. The hoodlums then took to their heels.

"I thought at first it was just water, but after a while my eyes started smarting," Smith told police. Police took him to hospital and he returned home.

At 2 Sunday morning, the war veteran, now in agony, telephoned for help and was taken to hospital.

Today his face is a mass of burns pock marks from the forehead to the chin.

TORTURE LITTLE BOY
In another pre-Halloween incident, Vancouver police reported that seven-year-old Donald Stuart of that city suffered serious burns when a firecracker exploded in his nose.

According to Mrs. Stewart, Donald was held by two youths, who inserted the firecracker in his nose and set it alight.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

INTERVIEWS—L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, will call at the foreign office in London tomorrow for an interview with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, it was learned today.

The Canadian minister will also see Lord Ismay, the new secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, Eden and Lord Ismay, named to the cabinet during the week-end, started work today.

Pearson arrived in London by air Sunday en route to Paris for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly.

PROOF—John Kaasa of Edmonton has proof that at least two horses in the Northwest Territories prefer eating fish to hay.

The horses owned by a store operator in the Great Slave Lake region will still eat hay, but they'd rather have the fish.

Kassa, a Minnesotan of Norwegian extraction, is a camera enthusiast who has spent a large part of the last 16 years traveling through the northwest in search of unusual subjects for still and movie cameras.

He returned to Edmonton with his prize movie of the fish-eating horses.

IDENTIFIED—In Manila the Philippine News Service today said an army task force surprised and killed a Communist leader and 21 of his men Sunday on Panay Island.

The leader was identified as Neri O. Ty. The agency reported that 13 guerrillas, including Ty's wife, were captured. Ty was Huk chief in the Visayas Islands in the central Philippines.

ARRIVAL—Danny Kaye arrived by air in Tokyo Sunday night to entertain United Nations troops in Japan and Korea.

The Hollywood film comedian was accompanied by blonde Singer Monica Lewis and accordionist-Songstress June Bruner.

DECEASED—In Louisville, Ky., Cesspool is dead.

The little white pup, saved by a fireman from drowning in a storm sewer Aug. 9, was killed by an automobile today.

The tiny pup's picture appeared in many newspapers in Canada and the United States along with the story of his rescue.

Fireman Robert L. Grayson, hero of the rescue, and fellow firemen adopted the Mutt, who was named "Cesspool."

Cesspool was playing in front of the firehouse this morning when he darted into the path of an automobile.

SALVAGE—In South Hampton, Eng., an American-invented submarine rescue bell will be used in salvage operations on the Royal Navy submarine Affray, which sank in the English Channel last April 17 with the loss of 75 lives.

The bell was first used by United States experts in rescue operations on the U.S. Marine Squalus, which went down off Hampton Beach, N.H., May 23, 1939. Thirty-three of the crew of 59 were rescued.

PROVOCATIVE—In Jerusalem the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday night to shelve the controversial women's conscription bill amendment.

It provided that girls who object to military service on religious grounds would have to serve for a corresponding period in such non-military work as agriculture, nursing, or teaching.

This proposal provoked strong protest in Jewish orthodox circles in Israel and abroad and led to the break-up of the previous coalition cabinet.

EXCITING—In New York they called Chico Lopez Sunday and told him his wife had given birth.

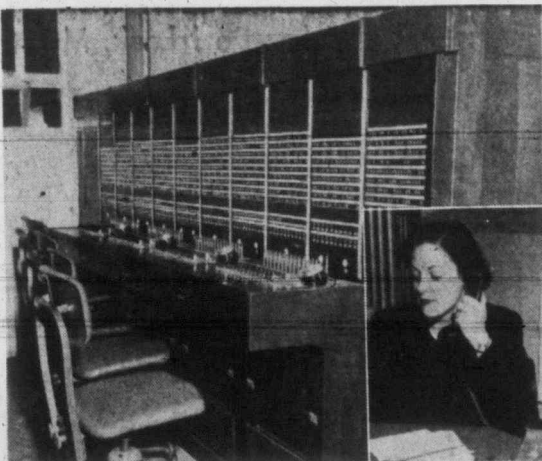

Lopez heard the word "four" and, dazed, hung up the telephone receiver.

Quadruplets? He couldn't believe it. He telephoned the hospital.

This time there was an explanation. They had told him he had a new boy and said: "You had three. So now you have four."

DIFFICULT—In Bozeman, Mont., when a policeman here ordered the driver of a dilapidated roadster to turn on his headlights, he was told:

"I can do it officer, but every time I turn on the lights my motor quits."

New Exchange For Legislative Buildings

New $130,000 automatic branch exchange will start operating at Parliament Buildings next week. Ten-panel board is pictured above. It has 1,200-line capacity. Ruth Thompson, exchange supervisor, seen in inset picture, supervised requirements for new exchange.

BLAME THE BOOKS

Ten Could Get You 20 Number Will Be Wrong

Anything can happen on Parliament Building phones next week—but it won't be the fault of the telephone operators.

The reason is simple. The largest private automatic branch exchange in the B.C. Telephone Company service will go into operation when the new 700-line exchange in the Douglas Building is cut over for service.

The confusion will come about when the hundreds of offices start phoning each other. Most of the "locals" have had their numbers changed in the new system, and in addition there are 300 new locals.

For example, anybody calling local 200, the old enquiry office number, may find himself talking to Premier Byron Johnson.

The first few days will require close study of the smart new directory being issued to offices within the exchange. Operators will be questioning closely all incoming calls.

The new system represents an investment of about $130,000 by the telephone company. It will replace the existing 400-line exchange located in the basement of the main building, and initially will serve 650 locals. Limit of the new outfit is 1,200 lines.

By the time the system is ready to handle legislative telephone traffic, installers A. A. Atkinson, V. Spencer and Harry Taylor, under the supervision of E. G. Cliff, will have spent about seven months on the job.

Experienced telephone operators have been given more than two months of extensive exchange training to enable them to give efficient and courteous service to the public. They must acquire a knowledge of the activities of each department of government.

Ruth Thompson, exchange supervisor, since her transfer from the telephone company, has supervised requirements for the new exchange.

7 Killed, 22 Injured When Bus Plunges 40 Feet Off Bay Bridge

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP)—A big Greyhound bus plunged 40 feet off an approach ramp to the Bay Bridge Sunday, killing seven persons and injuring the other 22 occupants pinned upside down in the pancaked wreckage.

The bus, inbound from Salt Lake City, spun out of control after striking a chunk of concrete knocked into its path by the crash of a motorist minutes before.

The motorist, whose car smashed into a traffic-dividing abutment on the Cloverleaf Bridge approach, also was severely injured.

Twelve bus occupants were in critical condition in hospitals. "Get me out, get me out," the survivors pleaded after the bus crashed through a steel restraining fence and fell on its top which was crushed down to seat level.

GRUESOME TASK
Rescuers worked for an hour and 46 minutes to pull the bus apart and remove the last of the trapped dead and injured from the blood-spattered wreckage.

Policeman Art DeZotte said the freak accident was set off by a Kansas car which threw a huge chunk of concrete directly into the path of the oncoming bus. The concrete block measured three feet long, 1½ feet wide and 1½ feet thick.

The bus hit the chunk with its left front wheel, tearing a huge gash in the tire. The bus went out of control.

It caromed across the opposite lanes of traffic, ripped through 100 feet of the restraining fence and dropped 40 feet.

One of the first to reach the bus was S. Q. Bryant, a construction worker. He and DeZotte smashed windows and removed four or five persons.

"At first," Bryant said, "everyone seemed to be unconscious. There were moans but no screaming that I can remember. Then, as we kept working, more and more seemed to regain consciousness. That's when the screaming and crying began."

Among the dead was the bus driver, Vane Edward Elshire, Sacramento, Calif.

SPEAKS TO MIDWIVES POPE PIUS CITES CHURCH SEX RULES

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 29 (Reuters)—Pope Pius XII today laid down the conditions under which the Roman Catholic church permits married couples to limit sexual activity to the wife's "safe periods."

In a 10,000-word speech to the Italian midwives, the Pope gave the most authoritative definition yet of church teaching on this aspect of married life.

He recalled the main principles of Catholic teaching on Maternity, stressing the complete banning of contraceptives, of suppression of infant life in any circumstances, of sterilization or of artificial insemination.

But he admitted that in certain circumstances a married couple may lawfully limit sexual intercourse to the "safe periods" of the wife.

The Pope stressed that this practice was permissible only if "grave reasons beyond their control" impelled married couples to its use.

The Pope said that married couples must abstain forever from sexual relations in cases where maternity presented too great a risk for the wife and where the observance of "safe periods" did not present sufficient guarantee against conception.

It appeared from his statement, although he did not specifically say so, that the Pope considered danger to the life of the wife in the case of maternity to be one of the "grave reasons" justifying the use of "safe periods."

The Pope protested against the argument that lifelong abstinence from sexual relations is impossible, that it amounts to demanding superhuman heroism.

He answered this argument by saying: "God does not demand the impossible. But God demands abstinence on the part of married couples if their union cannot be accomplished according to the norms of nature. Therefore in these cases abstinence is possible."

The Single Voice

THAT EXCELLENT MEMBER OF

Parliament, Mr. Howard Green, proposes that the Commonwealth be crystallized somehow into a third world bloc of power distinct from the United States on the one hand and Russia on the other. This Mr. Green seems to consider a new idea. It is a very old one, and at this point in history, a very dangerous one.

Mr. Green, a Conservative of the old school who scorns to disguise his conservatism, is returning by instinct to a project which was rejected long ago. The theory that the British nations must be unified under a common foreign policy, must speak in a "single voice," was strongly advocated in the first decade of this century. A final effort to establish some central machinery of foreign policy in London was made at the imperial conference of 1923 and the pressure behind this movement, especially from Britain, was almost irresistible. But Mr. Mackenzie King resisted it. The "single voice" was then forgotten until Lord Halifax's famous Toronto speech toward the end of the last war. Again the Canadian government rejected it and no political party, not even Mr. Green's, was ready to support it.

This was for obvious reasons, familiar to all students of Commonwealth history. Any attempt to erect a common foreign policy in the Commonwealth and to execute it through a central organ would mean that every Commonwealth nation must accept that policy willy-nilly, must abide by a majority decision, if necessary must follow a course decided by others though directly opposed to its own interests. This no nation of the Commonwealth is prepared to do.

Is it conceivable that Britain would accept, against its better judgment, the decision of the other Commonwealth nations combined? Would Canada vest its most vital decisions in the majority vote of Britain, India, Pakistan, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Ceylon? And even if the English-speaking nations (numerically a minority in the Commonwealth) were to accept such an arrangement assuredly India, Pakistan and South Africa would not. If a single voice system were attempted those three members of the Commonwealth would leave it at once.

At best, the great world power which Mr. Green envisaged would be reduced to a small group of English-speaking nations. In fact none of them would agree to any plan of this sort.

If the single voice has never been practical politics in the past it is more impractical today than ever, for it cuts straight across the only movement of world politics which can secure the Commonwealth and the free world.

The hope of the Commonwealth lies in the broad community of the free world now developing out of the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty. It lies in a concert of all the free peoples whose combined resources alone are sufficient to balance the power of the new Russian empire.

There are, as Mr. Pearson reminded Mr. Green the other day, only two real blocs in the world, the bloc of freedom and the bloc of slavery. It would be suicidal madness for the Commonwealth peoples, even if they could agree to such a policy, to split the bloc of freedom and repudiate the leadership of the United States in it.

That precisely is what Mr. Green's theory would do. By a strange alliance of opposites Mr. Green, the right-wing Conservative, finds himself in the same camp with the left wing of the British Labor Party under Mr. Bevan. Mr. Green is also moving close to Mr. Coldwell, whose whole thinking is dominated by a fear of the United States, largely because it is not socialist.

The suspicion of the United States which haunts Messrs. Green, Bevan and Coldwell is not shared either by the Labor Party leaders like Mr. Attlee or Conservatives like Mr. Churchill. On the contrary, the basic foreign policy of the British Labor Party and the Conservative Party alike is closer unity with the United States. No statesman in the world stands so firmly for the unity of the entire free world, so strongly opposed to any fragmentation of this power, as Mr. Churchill.

It is easy to imagine the results of any other policy in the United States. The Commonwealth is utterly indefensible without the power of the United States behind it, as Mr. Churchill has said so often. To attempt somehow to split our joint power, to rebel against American leadership (which is the real motive of the Green-Bevan-Coldwell school) would play right into the hands of those American isolationists, who have always considered British peoples unreliable allies. Any such plan of division and weakness at this moment is just made to order for the Kremlin. In the present peril, as Ben Franklin once said, we must hang together or hang separately.

With Sleeves Rolled Up

AUTHORITIES IN VARIOUS PARTS of Canada are expressing alarm at the growing reluctance of young men to seek their fortunes in pioneer areas and in the shirt-sleeve trades. Of 7,000 students at the University of British Columbia, it is pointed out, less than 60 are to be found in the final two years of studies in geology, mining, forestry and agricultural engineering. A preference for white-collar jobs in the cities is robbing the primary industries of the men needed to develop our resources.

A somewhat similar complaint is voiced by a medical spokesman in Quebec. He says medical graduates are neglecting rural areas in their desire to find comfortable and lucrative city practices. Again, a Vancouver plumber says he is unable to lure sufficient apprentices into his trade. Although wages are high, he comments, today's young men apparently prefer cleaner or more glamorous jobs.

If the thesis is correct—and the facts give it considerable support—the situation is a serious one for a country which still boasts of its frontiers and its pioneering spirit. Especially in a province such as British Columbia, a widespread predilection for city life would be disastrous.

It would mean that more venturesome newcomers must fill the jobs in our basic industries—the real source of our wealth—and ultimately provide the leadership with its larger rewards. It would mean that a country still young and waiting to be developed would become a nation of bookkeepers, clerks and secondary workers, while our primary enterprises were starved. It would mean that, failing outside help, our great wealth of minerals, timber and new farmlands must lie only partially developed, awaiting the advent of a more enterprising generation.

We find it difficult to believe that this condition has yet arrived. But it may well be that our education system should place more emphasis on the rewards, both tangible and intangible, to be found in manual work. The nobility of labor could be made more than a platform phrase. For the 20th century will never belong to Canada if Canada does not belong to it.

One Million Deaths

THE UNITED STATES THIS MONTH marked the death of the one-millionth member of its armed forces to die since the first minute man fell in 1775.

One million deaths is a terrible toll of humanity—one million victims of man's periodic need to fight his last breath for the things he holds dear. Even spread over 150 years the total is impressive. But it pales almost into insignificance when compared with the totals of European deaths in the last two world conflicts.

Both German and Russian casualties in the last war exceeded this. Civilian deaths as a result of war and totalitarian purges likewise far exceeded this number. And they occurred in half as many months as the United States casualties in years.

The terrible fact is that, by modern standards of war, one million deaths in 150 years is a light toll. The size of the United States total derives largely from the isolation which the North American continent has enjoyed. Were the U.S.A. in the midst of Europe the story would have been otherwise. The question immediately obtrudes: Does that isolation still exist? And the answer must be, no.

Atomic power, the bombing plane, airborne divisions, guided missiles and all the other accompaniments of scientific warfare have largely wiped out the Atlantic and Pacific oceans as defensive moats. He would be an optimistic seer who would forecast that the next 150 years would see no larger casualty lists from this continent than in the past.

Geography has failed us in the face of mechanical invention. We must look to ourselves, to our ability to live together, to our success in impressing aggressors with the concept that might of itself is not right, for future survival. Casualty lists must not be the only criterion, or they will be the only result.

sary to rebuke Mr. Drew. It says: "Neither Mr. Drew nor his fellow-leaders in opposition had any striking proposal for dealing with the cost of living likely to force the government into a detailed discussion of the pros and cons. Mr. St. Laurent did not have to extend himself in reply to their arguments. He was not put in the position of having to review some new plans for solving the difficulties of many thousands of Canadians."

In other words, by the testimony of this eminent Conservative newspaper, Mr. Drew's arguments, like Mr. Goldwell's, were hardly worth answering.

Unkindest Cut Of All

MR. DREW'S VAGUE POLICY OF controlling prices without inconveniencing anybody seems to evoke little enthusiasm in the leading Conservative newspapers.

The Toronto Globe and Mail, long leading Conservative organ of Toronto, is flatly opposed to government price controls. Mr. St. Laurent, in defending his policy the other day, was able to quote the Globe and Mail in his own support, which, for Mr. Drew, was perhaps the unkindest cut of all.

Now the Ottawa Journal, Conservative organ in the capital, finds it neces-

Example In Nanaimo

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY W. T. Strath's tribute to Peter Maffeo's Nanaimo civil defense organization will have been noted by the readers of this newspaper. Twice within recent weeks the up-island group has been called upon to serve in emergencies—once during the serious forest fire in that district, again in the tragic crash of the Q.C.A. plane. In each case the organization showed not only the spirit and stamina of the people who form it, but the disciplined ability to respond to calls for help. Mr. Strath has used the two incidents to indicate the manner in which civil defense is rounding into shape and preparing itself for any further emergencies which might occur—including the major catastrophe of possible hostilities on this coast.

At the same time, without ignoring their primary purpose, such agencies form valuable forces in any community, ready to serve when they are needed and trained in a number of useful skills that make them capable of meeting mishaps and treating casualties in a way to avert more serious injury or loss of life.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MY FRIEND Mr. Horace Snifkin, an old married man, deeply scarred by domesticity and now, as he says, hardly better than an automatic dishwasher of antique design, was greatly encouraged the other day by a statement from Mr. Douglas Abbott, minister of finance. Not a financial statement, of course, for nobody reads them. But Mr. Snifkin was encouraged to find that Mr. Abbott is just another Hutchison of his own sort, though probably less experienced and certainly less skilled. Mr. Abbott, too, is a dishwasher.

We now have that on the solemn record of Parliament. Asked by the Opposition why he doesn't get off his high horse and, instead of urging everybody to work harder, doesn't put on an apron, occasionally and plunge into the evening sink, Mr. Abbott replies, as glumly as any other married man, that he does just that.

IMAGINE, then, says Mr. Snifkin, the fascinating scene in the Abbott kitchen when the head of the house returns from the great House on the hill, weary and old with office, to the mercy of the dishes. Imagine him laying aside the robes of office and putting on his apron. And imagine how such a man is badgered by his family circle about the problem of inflation.

"Why," says a childish voice, in Mr. Snifkin's version of this little tragedy, "why, daddy, are prices so high?"

"BECAUSE," says Mr. Abbott, his arms deep in soap suds, his mind deep in statistics, "because, Mr. Speaker, the effective and circulating medium of exchange, now moving at unprecedented velocity, exceeds the productive capacity, that is to say the gross product of the national economy as distinguished from the net national income."

"Daddy," says the small voice, "you left some egg on this plate. Wash it again. Why are prices so high?"

"Egg prices particularly," says a female voice. "You haven't got it clean yet. Do it over."

"Mr. Speaker," says the dish washer, wearily scraping the plate clean of the high-priced egg. "Mr. Speaker, the wise deflationary policies of the government in the field of fiscal measures..."

"I WISH," says the female voice, "that the government would learn to wash dishes. Look at that plate!"

And again in the childish prattle: "Why did they put the price of chocolate bars up, daddy?"

"Oh, dammit," says the finance minister, suddenly aware that he is only a dishwasher like other men after all. "Don't ask me. Ask the economists. But don't believe them. Look what they told me."

"Still egg on it," observes the female voice.

"Why don't you put the prices down, daddy?" asks the childish prattle.

"He can't even put the dishes down without cracking them," says the female voice. "The whole set is chipped."

"But why, daddy, why?"

"DON'T bother your father," says the voice of authority. "Can't you see he's got more important things to attend to? Rinse those pans with hot water."

"Hot water," groans the dish washer. "Always I'm in hot water. If it's not Drew it's dishes. If it's not dishes it's soap. Abuse in Parliament and dish pans at home, I'm getting tired of it."

"When will prices come down, daddy?"

"When, by increased efficiency and more efficient labor the rate of productivity increases. I mean when everybody works harder."

"A good idea," says a voice growing a trifle waspish. "Work a little harder on that saucepan. A little more productivity or we'll be here all night."

"YES," booms a boyish voice from the corner, "who do you think you are, dad, the minister of finance or something?" Can I have a dollar for a movie?"

"Not a cent," says the dish washer firmly.

"And you with a half a billion surplus," says the boyish voice. "I only asked for a buck, just a single ordinary buck worth fifty-two cents."

"Not a cent," says the dishwasher and, like any other parent, dries his hands, searches in his pocket and hands over a dollar bill, remarking: "That's the reason for inflation, everybody spending too much."

"But it's good for business," says the female voice, "it keeps money circulating and helps the stores and prevents a depression."

AND THE dishwasher, realizing that all his sermons against inflation, all his attempts to reduce the demand for goods haven't made a dent on a single family in Canada, throws down his dish mop in despair and asks himself aloud why he ever went into politics, or why he was ever born, together with other questions of the same sort.

"Daddy's mad," says the childish voice. "I guess he doesn't like washing dishes."

Putting off the apron, pulling himself together and becoming once more the minister of finance, the dishwasher observes that this household doesn't appear to know any more about inflation than Mr. Drew and, indeed, it will be a relief to get out of the dishpan into the cauldron of Parliament again.

"BEFORE YOU go," says the voice of authority, "wrap up the garbage."

"What am I?" cries Mr. Abbott, "a statesman or a garbage man?"

And my friend Mr. Snifkin answers that he is something much better than either—a married man like the rest of us and he'd better get used to it.

Speculation

The Times (London)

It would not be exclusively daring to speculate whether, in the distant future, Canada may not rival the United States as her still undeveloped resources exceed those of the republic as markedly as her present population falls short.

'How Do I Look, Molotov?'

As Our Readers See It

NANAIMO...

May I take just a little of your time and a wee space in your illustrious paper, to express my sincere, heartfelt congratulations to the city fathers of Nanaimo for their very thoughtful, unselfish attitude during the Royal visit to Nanaimo.

"They place the children in a wonderful vantage place—their arena. I listened over the radio to the reception given Their Royal Highnesses by Nanaimo and district children. It was wonderful and so much different from the Royal visit in Victoria, where the children—far more important people than the local dignitary brass—were given only a less than secondary consideration."

My hat off to those here who did strive to give the children an advantage. It is about time our local brass did some thinking for others' benefit and I would ask them to remember this: "No man stands so straight as when he stoops to lift a little child." Children are very, very important people.

The mayor of Nanaimo has set a wonderful example of a very human being. To me he is a great man with a big and wonderful heart.

... AND THE ...

Would you be so kind as to print a small tribute to Nanaimo, re the Royal tour.

A pleasure indeed to listen to the Royal tour broadcast on Friday. Your regard for the wish of Princess Elizabeth to see the children of Canada must have brought real happiness to the Royal party, the children present and hundreds of thousands of radio listeners.

It is to be hoped your splendid example will be followed throughout the return half of the Royal tour which has started off on such a happy note.

One could wish that our children here in Victoria had been given a similar opportunity to express their love and regard for our Royal family.

... CHILDREN

With tears in my eyes and a lump in my throat I listened on Friday morning to the broadcast from Nanaimo of the reception of the school children for Their Royal Highnesses.

The mayor made a delightfully informal speech in behalf of the 4,500 school children—absolutely free of pomp and ceremony—which must have been a change for Their Royal Highnesses.

After the presentation of silver cups the kiddies sang to their Royal visitors—and then the Princess mingled in among the children. As the Royal couple left the arena they were sent off with a chorus of "So Long It's Been Good to Know You."

This whole affair must have warmed the hearts of this Royal mother and father.

I only hope Mr. English and a few others sat with bowed heads and thought of the miserable wetness Victoria's small ones stood in for two and a half solid hours only to get a fleeting glimpse as the visitors drove by.

Why didn't Victoria delight in showing off the children instead of banishing them to the background?

"DISGUSTED MOTHER."

UNION JACK

I am wondering why the poor display of flags on the part of householders during the Royal visit. Could it be that Canadians are too embarrassed and humiliated to hang out the Union Jack for a national reception?

Do they feel that they have stolen the Union Jack from the British Isles, or that they have had it thrust upon them?

One of your correspondents in a recent letter remarks, "What of the flag—what does it matter?" I may say that it matters very much in a nation's history and in the character of its people.

To our new Canadians, to our numerous tourists, to our visitors from foreign shores, it is very humiliating for native-born or naturalized Canadians to say "We have no national flag. We use the Union Jack, flag of the British Isles lent to us before the days of Confederation."

Mr. Sandford recently asserted that we were really not very good Canadians if we advocated the adoption of our own national colors. He also stated that the Union Jack was the flag of the Commonwealth of Nations. What! The flag of Australia, of New Zealand, of South Africa?

Really I think Mr. Sandford must be British first and Canadian secondly. I would hesitate to say that he was one who says "We own this bloomin' country, we keep the Union Jack here."

Let Canada have her own national flag and let us demonstrate that we have a truly Canadian nationality.

O. D. DAVIS.
240 Cook St.

THE FLAG

It was refreshing indeed to read the arguments put forth by Mr. R. D. MacLachlan in your issue of Oct. 24. Far too many of the views expressed by previous writers in their ratification of the Union Jack as the national flag of Canada.

Mr. MacLachlan has made a notable attempt to sift the facts, a process our more ardent patriots steeped in false tradition seem unable to comprehend. A few more healthier approaches to the problem may well do some good.

Dear Lady— What A Question!

IT WAS as the Prince and Princess came through Active Pass aboard H.M.C.S. Crusader that Her Royal Highness asked the pilot: "How does it come that the capital of British Columbia is on an island?"

Roy W. Brown, relating the incident in the Vancouver Sun, provides the following answer:

Dear Lady—What a question!

A perfectly natural and innocent query but it contained many of the buried ghosts of high politics in this province 50 years ago.

A great potential commercial rivalry was involved in that day.

A government began to lose its hold on the people because it was forced to assert that the real British Columbia was actually on an island upon which Victoria was the largest community—not the geographical centre though it was the business metropolis.

The trick was to erect a majestic and costly legislative building which would forever anchor the seat of government "on an island."

INTO TROUBLE

To console the Princess, I suggest to day it was a wise, as well as a farseeing decision.

In Vancouver, 1951, we run into so much trouble locating a new library in the right site that, for the life of me, I don't know where we could put the parliament buildings if it were possible to load them aboard barges and bring them to the mainland.

As of 1870, Victoria was the one settlement which made any pretensions to commercial importance.

New Westminster enjoyed a secondary position; Fort Langley and Yale were trading centres on the Fraser; Barkerville had the largest population of all during the terrific years of the Cariboo gold rush.

But Victoria was the source of all food and other human supply.

By steamer to San Francisco Victoria was the link with the outside world.

RAILWAY SPECTRE

But always there was a spectre of a transcontinental railway whose terminus might challenge Victoria—this formed the reason and the background for a plan to bring the C.P.R. to Bute Inlet and cross the salt-water channel to Vancouver Island by bridging Ripple Rock. A noble idea but geographically cock-eyed.

The rails instead came to Port Moody, then to Vancouver. What, then, could be done to reduce Vancouver to a mere spot on the map through which people would pass, while going and coming to Victoria?

The answer to this prayer was a hasty decision of a dying government to erect such a magnificent physical structure for government at Victoria that it could not be moved.

They designed Victoria to be a "little bit of England on the shores of the Pacific." Regrettably I note they failed to stay with this idea, as they have kept up the legislative buildings.

Today, Victoria is in the midst of a sad transition. The winding lanes of the early days are extant. And there is some old world atmosphere—in a few isolated spots.

ARCHITECTURAL SHOCK

But the building code gives you a shock. The made-over structures of Government and Port and Douglas streets conform to nothing in an architectural sense.

Even the federal government, erecting a post office to cost $2,000,000, will have a slick, over-windowed structure perfectly at home on Fifth Avenue, New York, or on Hastings Street, Vancouver, but as far away from Old World design as the warehouses on the Yukon River front at Dawson City.

The old Victoria that I loved which was in fact "a bit of old England" must follow the birds from the United States and quite soon become a little bit of the great American republic, located on the southeast corner of Vancouver Island.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"A LOT of our expressions," said the Elevator Man, "get such constant use that we don't even bother to finish them. The first few words of the adage are enough to convey our thought. We leave the rest for the listener to fill in. 'Speech is silver,' somebody says, and it's up to the other party to add for him self, 'silence is golden.' A 'rolling stone,' somebody else mutters sagely. The listener has to supply his own moss. 'One man's meat,' another remarks judiciously. The poison part is up to you. And so it goes. We've used 'the proof of the pudding...' so often, and let it go at that, that a good many people likely have forgotten the rest of it, 'the eating thereof.' But that fella in Italy didn't the other day. He read 'smoking for eating' but he had the right idea. Lower main!

"It seems," said the Elevator Man, "that the guy is a salesman. He began to notice that when he came home there was a smell of stale cigar smoke around although he didn't smoke, and he found a box of cigars in a drawer. Naturally he was curious. His pretty wife told him she had acquired a taste for cigars during his absence. There was the pudding. It only remained to be eaten. The story came out when the man delivered his wife to a hospital, deathly sick. 'I made her smoke a cigar,' he told the doctors, 'and this is the result.' Watch your step!

"We have," said the Elevator Man, "a lot of fancy names for it, but the proof-of-the- pudding theory is the basis of most of our progress. What it amounts to is 'Let's see if it works.' And that's as good a test as any. Of course, it might be a little tough if we applied it to ourselves. 'Fill the bill or get out' is a standard we'd rather use on the other fella. But whether we like it or not, that's the one the world is going to use on us. And some of us will make pretty indigestible pudding."

Alternate Craigflower Route Hard-Surfaced

The Craigflower alternate route to the Island Highway is now completely hard-surfaced. Provincial government road crews finished re-building of Craigflower road from Tillicum Road to the Esquimalt municipal boundary Friday and Saturday. The hot-mix asphalt surfacing job, the equal of the Island highway and Trans-Canada highway surfacing, was made possible by a favorable break in the weather during last week, an official said. When the road rebuilding job was started in early summer, it was planned to pave the stretch next year. "Plans were changed when the upkeep of a gravel surface under heavy traffic during the winter was considered," the official said.

By JOHN LARDNER

You hear it said on all sides that what the world needs is a return to the old morality. A boon companion of mine, after a couple of frosted chocolates the other night, applied this judgment to the famous World Series play, in which Eddie Stanky placed the ball 40 feet out of the glove of Phil Rizzuto.

"It was shocking," said my friend. "It shows that, morally, the world has gone to hell in a lunch pail."

Maybe he was right. Your correspondent has no first-hand knowledge of the quality of morality prior to 1912; all I know about that is what I read in the old-time newspapers, novels, and form charts.

When I went to the World Series this year, and saw the diabolical Stanky win a game single-footed, I had just been reading excerpts from "Frank Merriwell at Yale," by Gilbert Patten, alias Burt L. Standish. The influence is mighty strong I kept hearing Merriwell's well noises in the grandstand ("He is doing very well! Who? Why, Merriwell!") May easily be transmuted into "He can outkick any Yankee! Who? Why, Eddie Stanky!" and I kept seeing the game in Merriwell terms.

Don't get me wrong. No slur on the memory of the late Mr. Patten's hero will come from this quarter. As a matter of fact, I used to know the author pretty well, and I honored his work and his character. To be on the safe side, though, I'll quote from a speech by a Merriwell schoolmate, in "Frank Merriwell at Yale":

Stinky Stanky Talking Turkey

"Merriwell is a wonderful runner. I found that out last fall, when I made up as Professor Grant and attempted to relieve him of a turkey he had captured somewhere out in the country. I blocked his road at the start, but he slugged me with the turk and then skipped."

A nice play. Could Stanky have made it? No. He might have "captured" a bird somewhere out in the country, because boys will be boys, and he undoubtedly would have kissed this fake professor over the skull with the poultry, but he could never have got clean away. Eddie runs like a coal barge. Otherwise, he is a fine Merriwell type.

I quote further from the masterpiece, from the lips of the hero himself (and remember, this is the morality of fifty years ago, and this is Yale, playing Harvard):

Merriwell—"Blossom-bats ahead of me, does he? Well, he never got a hit when one was wanted in all his life; but he's got a trick that is just as good, if he will try to work it."

My Stars, What A Clever Touch

Coach (and his name ain't Durocher)—"Getting hit by the ball? He is clever at that. Tell him to work the dodge this time if he can."

Did Blossom get hit by a pitch, on Merriwell's advice? He surely did—and trotted down to first, his hand clinging to his side, but grinning a bit in a sly way. All right, that clears the deck for the way our correspondent, under the spell of reading Merriwell, saw the game of Oct. 6, 1951:

The catcher had secured the ball, he flung it to the shortstop, and the shortstop whirled to touch our hero!

"Slide!"

That word Edward heard above all the commotion. Forward he scooted in a cloud of dust!

A sudden silence.

"Out—oops, sorry—I mean safe!" rang the voice of the umpire, as the snowy sphere sailed in a glorious arc into centre field!

Zounds. The Utter Drama Of It All

Then another roar, louder, wilder, full of unbounded joy! The Yale—I mean Giant! cheer! The band drowned by all the uproar! There was a waving of flags and white handkerchiefs, telling that there were not a few fair spectators who sympathized with the bold immortal Senior Loop!

"Say, by jingo!" said Old Leo, the coach, forgetting his language in the excitement, "I wouldn't be surprised to see Old Leo's boys pull the game out in this inning, for all that there is one out!" And there was the spectacle of sturdy lads in white uniforms, delicious with delight, jumping up and down.

"And it will be Edward's doing," agreed the crowd, which chanced to overhear him, "for we believe he kicked the ball on purpose, the rogue!"

And there was not a dry eye in the house!

Bruins Blank Chihawks; Rangers Nip Canadiens

Boston Bruins advanced into a tie for second place with Montreal in the National Hockey League by shutting out Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 Sunday night while the Canadiens were losing 2-1 to New York Rangers.

Rookie Walt Hergesheimer and Reggie Sinclair fired goals as the Rangers rang up their second victory of the season in a game at New York.

Detroit edged Toronto 2-1 in Saturday night's only fixture. A superb job of goal tending by Sugar Jim Henry, once a Black Hawk, was the feature of the contest at Chicago.

Another ex-Hawk, Adam Brown, provided the one-goal margin nursed by the Bruins through two periods and a great portion of the third. At 8:02 of the first heat, he connected on a five-footer and assists went to Milt Schmidt and Johnny Peterson. The Bruins protected their lead but didn't score again until 16:22 of the third period. Then Pentti Lund grabbed a puck out of a mass of Hawk attackers, passed to Bill Quackenbush who skated in unmoiled and beat Harry Lumley with a 15-footer. Henry had 38 saves to 31 for Lumley.

Elmer Lach spoiled Ranger goalie Chuck Rayner's shutout at 17:32 of the third session at New York when he teamed up with defencemen Doug Harvey and Maurice Richard to notch Montreal's only tally.

New York's first goal was the first National Hockey League marker for Hergesheimer. Sinclair, last year's leader among the rookies, notched New York's second tally later in the second period.

They Couldn't Beat Mr. Ashdown

All season, Victoria United have been terrorizing goalies of other Coast Soccer League teams. However, the situation was reversed Saturday as North Shore Reds handed the United their first licking of the season by a 3-2 count. It was Frank Ashdown, Reds nimble goalie who did the terrorizing as he ran all over the field to break up Victoria thrusts. Here Ashdown, beneath ball, comes far out of his net to punch the ball clear, felling Wally Milligan (left), and Cedric Robb (center). The white-shirted defender at right is North Shore's Harry Anderson.

Logger Fells Chief; Fans Roast Nick

Saturday night's wrestling fans at the Bay Street Armory put matchmaker Nick Harris behind the eight-ball.

In the main event of the evening, a heavyweight bout between Logger Jack MacDonald and Chief Thunderbird, things got a little rough for everybody concerned, even Nick, who did not witness the bout.

The match was rolling along smoothly, with only a few rufous occurring, when MacDonald threw Thunderbird out of the ring. The Chief staggered to his feet, blood running down his face and shoulders from a cut in the forehead.

The fight was stopped and referee Steve Jocelyn awarded the win to Logger Jack. At this point, the irate fans considered the whole thing phony and immediately began to squawk.

They cornered Harris and demanded their money back. Also, they demanded that Nick should get a new referee.

VOLUNTEER
Nick explained that in this town, referees were scarce than golden eggs. He was saved, temporarily however, when Ben Laughlin, a spectator, offered to referee in the future.

In the special event bout of the evening, Harris, substituting for Dr. Gallagher, met Gus Johnson, a strapping Swede from Minneapolis. Gus proved a little too good for Nick, and won the bout by first using a backbreaker hold, and then a surfboard grip.

Tarzan Potvin of Vancouver won the second bout of the evening by decisioning Al Watkins, who reminded the crowd of an all-American wheaties man, by using fists and feet.

The local bout brought together for the first time Tyke Myren and Cecil Warnop, Myren pinning Cecil to the canvass with seven minutes left in the contest.

Missing more scoring opportunities than the club had players, Victoria United Saturday afternoon saw their undefeated Pacific Coast Soccer League record go the eventual way of all such standards.

The team that turned the trick was the ever-improving North Shore Reds, who by their 3-2 victory, however undeserved, moved into a tie with United for the league leadership. It was North Shore's fourth straight victory after dropping the season's opener to United here.

The game was only eight minutes old when Ab Travis gave a perfect indication of things to come when he hit the post from point-blank range. Travis' abortive attempt to power the ball into the twine was the second close try for the locals in that short space of time. However, more were to come.

Goalie Joe Travis saved an almost certain marker from Fred Whitaker when he came far out of his net to deflect a hard drive past the post. Minutes later Bill Smith took a pass through the middle and North Shore had a 1-0 lead.

Wally Milligan eyed the count on a smart individual effort in which he tricked three defenders and finally netminder Frank Ashdown.

Still holding a decided edge territorially, United again found itself trailing when Malcolm McManus beat Joe Travis with a well-placed drive at the 25-minute mark.

CLOSE TRIES
Shortly afterwards Milligan hit the post when he tried to heel the ball into the twine in a scramble in front of the North Shore net. Another pile-up saw United force a bounce ball two feet from the Reds' goal line but a score was averted when Den McGee's drive was blocked by one of several North Shore players who jammed the goal mouth.

Cedric Robb barely missed the corner on a header attempt before the intermission and the Reds took a 2-1 lead into the second half.

It was the same sad tale in the second 45 minutes. United had the majority of chances with Den McGee's drive was blocked by one of several North Shore players who jammed the goal mouth.

Calgary Prepared To Join W.I. Loop

Annual League Meeting Opens Here Today

Calgary is definitely prepared to enter the Western International Baseball League.

This was made known Sunday by Sam Timmins, who represents baseball interests in the Alberta city, and who is in Victoria to attend the annual W.I.L. meeting, which opened at the Empress Hotel this morning.

"We are definitely interested in joining the W.I.L.," Timmins said. "We will be aptly financed and capable of providing the necessary competition for a league of this classification."

Timmins asserted, however, that the interests he represents are not prepared "to pay a premium" for the privilege of securing a franchise.

He was referring to the fact that the Tacoma franchise, which is expected to be dropped, is up for sale at what Timmins calls "a prohibitive figure."

GOOD ATTENDANCE

Timmins and his Calgary associate, Gordon MacFarlane, pointed out that Calgary's attendance in amateur ball the past years was comparable to any club in the W.I.L. and better than most. The Calgary park seats 6,000.

"If we gain entry into the league, Edmonton is virtually certain to follow suit, when and if the occasion presents itself," Timmins said. "Edmonton is the best baseball town in Western Canada, bar none, and that includes Vancouver."

Though nothing official concerning Tacoma's future status has been received by league president Robert Abel, it is known that the San Diego Padres, who own the Tacoma franchise, are not desirous of continuing the operation of a team in Tacoma.

LEWISTON INTERESTED

Lewiston, Idaho, has been prominently mentioned as also seeking the Tacoma franchise. It was recently announced that Lewiston fans had raised $14,000 towards the $50,000 goal set as the sum needed to put a team in the league.

Timmins left the impression that Calgary had no such problem as Lewiston and that if the league was prepared to accept Calgary's application for a franchise, the rest would be only a formality.

AMONG THE RULINGS

Among the more important items to be discussed at the two-day meeting is the probable return to the limited service player and rookie rules.

The thought has been expressed in some quarters that under these rulings, if adopted, each club would be forced to carry six limited service players and two rookies on its 17-player roster. However, this may be modified.

Vancouver owner Bob Brown pointed out that with the armed services draft in the United States taking several players who would qualify under the limited service clause (three years professional experience) the players available would demand as high a salary as veterans. "This would defeat the purpose of the rule," Brown said. "There are few enough young players, as it is."

Today's opening session was expected to deal with unfinished business and election of officers. Delegates from member clubs of the W.I.L., Calgary and Lewiston, were present.

LOOKING FOR A JOB? COUGARS MAY BE, TOO

Like to travel? Like to be associated closely with athletes? And above all—like to work? If you can answer "yes" to these qualifications there's a job for you in Victoria.

Take this notice with your credentials to the nearest office of the Victoria Hockey Club and the job may be yours.

What job?

The job of trainer for the Cougars.

Yes, it's true. As if the management didn't have enough worries last week with the club dropping its three P.C.H.L. games, trainer George Wilkinson Saturday night handed in his resignation. Club general manager Fred Hutchinson didn't enlarge on Wilkinson's resignation, except to say it has been accepted. Hutchinson was quick to point out that it was through no fault of the trainer that the Cougars lost those three games. Rather he intimated that some of the Cougars would be eligible to apply for the vacated position if they didn't buck up.

Rockets Hurdle Over Cougars

It was a coming-from-behind week-end in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Tacoma Rockets came from behind to beat Victoria 4-1 Saturday night and Seattle Ironmen 3-2 Sunday night; New Westminster Royals came from behind to defeat Vancouver Canucks 4-2; and Saskatoon Quakers came from behind to down Calgary Stampede 4-2.

Duncan Native Sons flashed some of the best soccer seen in the Victoria and District Soccer League this year as they defeated Heaneys 8-4 Sunday at Athletic Park.

N.H.L. RULE MODIFIED

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP).—A player who closes his fist on the puck in a National League game no longer will be subject to a penalty unless he does it deliberately to stop the play, referee-in-chief Carl Voss announced Saturday.

Previously a player received a two-minute penalty even if he merely grabbed a puck flying at his face. Under the new rule, effective last night, grabbing the puck now calls for a face-off on the spot.

The referee now decides if the player merits a penalty.

Ex-Victorian Buys Monarchs

It is reported from Vancouver that Sid Hole, former Victorian, is the new owner of the Kerrisdale Monarchs of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League.

Hole bought the club from Frank Bernard and John and Fred Taylor for $2,500. Scott Milne will be retained as coach.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Keate

"Now, boys, after last Saturday's game it is all too obvious you need much practice in broken field running!"

IF YOU LIKE KIDS AND FINE FOOD, READ THIS

Maybe Tommy Burgess does not like home-cooking. Tommy Burgess was, until recently, trainer for the Macs soccer team in the fourth division of the lower island minor league.

Unfortunately for the Macs, Burgess has decided to turn his talents to another sport so the manager of the team is looking for another trainer to keep his kids in trim.

Now the manager of this team isn't just any manager—it is Mrs. McLaren, maker of champions and cooker of all manner of tasty goodies.

Mrs. McLaren feeds her players and more important, her trainers, with the succulent products of her kitchen.

So, if there are any bachelors around town who are tired eating in Ye Olde Greasy Spoon, the job is open to all comers.

Individuals Crush Vets In Exhibition Cage Debut

Victoria Individuals of the newly-formed Intercity Basketball League may not be any world beaters at the moment, but of Saturday night's exhibition game at Victoria High School, they're going to be reckoned with when they acquire their full complement of players.

The cleaners, who yet hope to sign John Clark and George Andrews, and possibly Doug Peden, and with playing coach Norm Baker still ineligible, made their debut a successful one by thumping Vets of France, 26-23.

Sparked by Bob Boyes, a member of last year's unit, Individuals romped through the young senior "B" club with ease in the first half and coasted home from there.

Boyes racked up 13 points in a good display while all other members of the club hit the scoresheet with the exception of Wes Mautshead.

FEEDMEN WIN
Scott and Peden had little difficulty in trouncing Chinese Students, 23-12 in an intermediate "A" tussle while Mount View High School ran roughshod over St. Louis College in intermediate "B" boys, 38-21.

Saunders was the big gun of Scott and Peden's attack with an even dozen points. Ken Snowsall paced Mount View with 10.

Three additional clubs have joined the association; it was announced by league officials. One is the Pro-Rec unit which will compete in intermediate "B".

Triple Tie Possible As Alouettes Trample Argos

If anybody is looking for the unpredictables in this slightly-cockeyed big-time football season, they needn't go beyond the home-town swan songs of Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampede. The Spoilers certainly added a weird touch.

Alouettes, down-trodden and humiliated in Big Four competition, salvaged their wounds Sunday with a whopping 34-22 upset victory over Toronto Argonauts to put a large-sized crimp in the scullers' playoff aspirations. It didn't mean a thing to the already-eliminated Albs but it sent Argos into a second-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, beaten 13-9 by Ottawa Roughriders.

Ottawa's triumph assured Clem Crowe's Roughriders one spot in the playoffs. Now it's a sawtooth between Toronto and Hamilton for the other place.

The Montreal victory was a duplication of the also-ran Stampede's explosive 26-25 "finale" victory over Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Canada Conference a week ago. The Eskis, pushed into a sudden-death pre-

DOWNED BY CRUSADERS

Facts Of Life Sad For College Rugby Players

'Tis a rough game, rugby, and many an injury has been sustained in playing the gruelling sport. Victoria College has had more than its share of maladies this season, not entirely physical. Although the season is still young, Keith MacDonald's wards have found that the road to success is plenty rough.

Last week, the college crew won its first game of the season, and the way the players ran off the field at Macdonald Park, they looked as if they were going to build a bonfire under Crusaders in the following week's contest. But it didn't quite work out that way. An "enormous" crowd of approximately 65 people watched the College XV go down to a 13-0 defeat.

Early in the first half, Burnett scored the first marker for the Crusaders from a scrum to the right of the College goal. Hicks completed the convert and Crusaders led 5-0.

A try just before the end of the first half by speedy Jack Gibbs brought the score to 8-0. Hicks kicked a successful convert and the intermission count was 10-0.

Half way through the last period Burnett closed out the scoring.

BAYS WIN

Meanwhile, in an experimental game at Windsor Park, J.B.B.A. knocked the pins out from under the Oak Bay Wanderers to the tune of 15-10.

Bays were forced to overcome a 11-6 deficit as Oak Bay forced the scoring when Stinson went over the line early in the first half. Ellis converted successfully, and the score jumped to 5-0.

Then the Bays got on the bandwagon. Harry Turner and Hansen scored. Gary Pynn missed both converts.

In the second half, Richardson crossed the line for the Wanderers, and Ellis converted to provide the 11-6 margin.

After Bays had scored a try but missed the convert and pushed the score to 11-9, Gary Pynn booted a penalty kick and scored the final try of the game on a long run.

As you get older, any faults of personality (selfishness, hot temper, talking too much) become more ingrained, more obvious to others.

dicament Saturday night at Edmonton with a close-fitting 4-1 decision over the Bombers, who went into the game 7-5 favorites.

TO MEET REGINA

The Annis Stukus-coached Eskimos now meet Regina Roughriders in Edmonton Saturday night with the series closing out at Regina the following week.

The Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union results were as expected, but the margin of victories was a trifling upsetting. The all-Canadian Sarnia Imperials climbed all over a disorganized Toronto Balm Beach club for a 36-0 victory and McMaster University rounded out the 1951 O.R.F.U. schedule with a 50-6 gallop over the hapless Windsor Royals.

The two-game total-point O.R.F.U. playoffs will start at Toronto Saturday night and finish

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—Three horses were scratched from the Cambridge Stakes today.

This leaves 48 still eligible to run in the 1 1/4-mile race at Newmarket Wednesday.

Those scratched were Devon Prince, Le Banquier and Rock and Rye.

An Irish sweepstakes is based on the race.

at Sarnia the following Saturday. The winner of this series meets the Big Four for the eastern Canada title.

The Big Four schedule ends Saturday with Ottawa at Toronto and Montreal at Hamilton and it could end in a triple point tie with Argonaut and Tiger-Cat victories.

There's nothing in the Big Four constitution to provide a solution to a three-way tie. In such an event, the executive will meet to decide a way out of the situation.

BOMBERS WIN

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28 (CP).—Vancouver Blue Bombers Saturday won the British Columbia junior football title with a 9-1 victory over Vancouver Maroons.

Radio In Canada Celebrates 31st Birthday

Industry Has Enjoyed Tremendous Progress

Canada's radio industry, which began as a puny infant 31 years ago, today boasts an organization worth many millions of dollars and employing thousands.

The Victoria Daily Times today joined with hundreds of other B.C. businesses in saluting radio in the week of Oct. 27 to Nov. 3.

"Relax with radio week" is the slogan.

It is a reminder that again this week the untold thousands of Canada radio listeners will again be entertained with football and hockey broadcasts, jive, cowboy and symphony music, U.N. broadcasts, recipes and other types of broadcasts.

It is a far cry to the days when listeners had to toy with crystal sets and clamp on headphones to get a broadcast.

First Canadian radio transmissions were produced out of Montreal after the First World War. The Marconi Company was the pioneer outfit.

Donald Manson, manager of the Marconi experimental station, today is assistant general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) which now broadcasts throughout the nation and abroad in 14 languages.

Canada's radio industry now produces three-quarters of a million radio receivers a year.

During the year ending March 31, 1951, the CBC originated 82.9 per cent of the total hours of network broadcasting; private stations originated 2.3 per cent, and the remaining 14.8 per cent consisted of programs from the U.S., the United Kingdom and other countries.

Radio Whets Appetites For Theatre, Sport

Attendance at both theatre and sports performances has been increased, rather than decreased, by radio broadcasting. Thousands now attending symphony concerts do so because their interest was aroused through hearing music broadcasts.

Rapid growth of the Canadian radio audience is indicated in the increase in radio receiving licenses from 9,954 in 1923 to 2,250,000 in 1951. In most cases, the receiving set serves much more than one listener, and one license will cover more than one receiver in a home.

This would indicate that virtually everyone in Canada listens to radio. The value of radio is based on its position as a channel through which flows all forms of entertainment, from serious music and drama to the lightest comedy and popular music, as well as all branches of spectator sports.

Klondike Veteran Aged 84, Drowns On Hunting Trip

Edward F. Doran, 84, formerly of Victoria, drowned when the small boat in which he was duck hunting capsized near Dawson City, Yukon Territory, Saturday, it was learned today.

Mr. Doran, a brother of Stephen Doran, 516 Sturdee, taught at Boys' Central School and later served as principal of Spring Ridge School. He left Victoria for Dawson in 1897, when the great gold rush was gaining momentum, and had lived there ever since.

As well as his brother, Mr. Doran is survived by a sister, Mrs. Helen Hard, Sooke.

Prepare For Rush During Radio Week Contest

tinuing until Nov. 3. Patrick is secretary of local division of Canadian Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers and Wilcox chairman of group.

Hint Agitators In Halifax As Ships Dodge N.Y. Strike

HALIFAX, Oct. 29 (CP).—Halifax longshoremen will work ships diverted here because of the New York dock strike unless told to do otherwise by their international officers, local president J. J. Campbell said today. Several ships already have been diverted here because of the strike in New York.

There were reports, meanwhile, that a group of "agitators" had arrived in Halifax during the week-end, apparently in an effort to stir up trouble among the Halifax stevedores.

PRESIDENCY ABOLISHED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 27 (AP).—The senate approved a law last night abolishing Uruguay's presidency and setting up a nine-man "executive college" to rule the nation. The constitutional change, already approved by the chamber of deputies, was proposed by President Andres Martinez Trueba.

Prizes Awarded In Stamp Exhibit

Loretta Wildig was awarded first prize in the junior stamp collection contest of the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society, held at 725 Courtney, last week, it was learned today.

Brian Small took second place, while David Leeming was third. Miss Jessie Gordon took first prize with a frame of modern Austrialia stamps in the championship class. Mrs. A. Molesworth was awarded second prize for a frame of heraldic lions on stamps. P. W. Mason and Mrs. C. A. Strable came first and second respectively, in a class for persons who had never before won prizes.

Canadian Radio Produces Outstanding Programs

Westinghouse Show Feature

Canadian radio, already recognized as among the world's finest, features programs that have an appeal reaching far beyond our borders.

One of the outstanding presentations among the all-Canadian programs is the current "Westinghouse Presents," a series that stars the famed Don Wright Chorus of London, Ont., and John Fisher, known throughout North America as the voice of Canada.

The half-hour program is presented each Sunday evening (at 3 p.m. P.S.T.) over 52 stations on the Dominion network, from Newfoundland to B.C.

Multiplicity of tasks associated with the production of such a program, not realized by the audience, keeps a large group of behind-the-scenes radio people busy for days in advance of each performance.

Don Wright, in addition to directing his 14-voice chorus, also arranges the songs they present. In all his work with the seven men and seven women of the chorus, he has the skilled assistance of his wife, Lillian. She is the producer of the chorus portion of each half-hour program.

From the control room of radio station CFPL, where the program originates, she supervises all rehearsals and the actual broadcast program.

Meanwhile, John Fisher, in search of little-known facts about Canadians and the way they live, may be hundreds of miles away from the studio on broadcast night, delving into story material. In such cases, his portion of the broadcast is recorded on tape, which is sent to London in time for the show. In becoming one of Canada's most noted promoters, John Fisher has earned the praise not only of his fellow Canadians, but of the United States as well.

HIGH TRIBUTE

A feature article on the Canadian commentator appears in the November issue of a U.S. magazine, Coronet, in which he is referred to as "Mr. Canada."

At present with the press party of the Royal Tour, Fisher is acting as commentator for the CBC.

"Westinghouse Presents," with the Don Wright Chorus and John Fisher, first appeared on the radio program list in February, 1950, but for many years before that time Wright had his singers broadcasting over CFPL, of which he was once manager.

He is known internationally in music circles, particularly for his research into the changing voices of adolescent male singers. Wright has already written three books on the subject, and two of them are in use in schools throughout Canada. His system of treating changing voices has been introduced in the United States for use in all public and high schools.

Don Wright founded his system when he was head of music for London, Ont., schools, and spent five years in research on the subject before publishing his findings in book form.

Two outstanding Canadians are thus presented to radio listeners on "Westinghouse Presents," one who teaches the young to sing, another who sings the praises of our great country.

84,000,000 Population Crowds Tiny Japan Isle

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's tiny island kingdom is groaning under a population of 84,000,000 people.

It is the highest level of Japanese population since vital statistics were first started in Japan 51 years ago.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters estimates Japan will reach a population of 100,000,000 by 1970 at the latest and by 1961 at the earliest.

Under new sanitation measures given Japan by the Allied occupation, life expectancy in the islands has been extended 11 years compared with prewar expectancy.

Japan is faced with two major problems caused by the growth of the population:

1. How is Japan going to curb a population which is bound to increase in the future?

2. How is Japan to keep unemployment down?

Family planning is on the increase in Japan. It is practised more in urban areas than in the country.

FOOD PROBLEM
The government recently estimated that 19 per cent of the Japanese now practise birth control.

The job of feeding the Japanese is becoming terrific. Up to 45 per cent of Japan's population is engaged in agriculture. But because of the mountainous terrain and the Japanese custom of splitting up farms among the sons, few farms in Japan today consist of more than five acres.

Under this system, each square kilometer of land in Japan would have to support 1,650 persons.

The Japanese as a nation are no longer indifferent to the problems of over-population.

Radio Moscow Hits Churchill

MOSCOW, Oct. 27 (INS)—A Moscow radio commentator charged today that Winston Churchill's return to power means Britain now will give "more energetic support to the aggressive policy of the American imperialists."

The commentator, B. Federov, said the "capitalist press" of America and Europe greeted the Conservative victory with a "real howl of approval."

Earlier, all major Moscow newspapers gave prominent space to a Tass News Agency statement that "nothing new in British policy was to be expected" despite the Churchill triumph.

More Sulphur

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP)—The sulphur shortage which has hampered newsprint production will be ended by 1953, Dr. J. R. Donald, head of the defense production department's chemical division said Saturday.

Dr. Donald told the Commercial Chemical Association convention that Canada next year will produce 100,000 tons more sulphur than this year and the serious shortage will be over the following year.

No Strike Deal Being Studied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—A proposal to ask organized labor for a no-strike agreement in war plants, particularly in the aircraft industry, is being discussed within the Department of Defense and the Office of Defense Mobilization, a military spokesman said Saturday.

He added in reply to questions, however, that the idea is still in the discussion stage and no document to carry it out has been drawn up.

British Nudists Bare Bare Plan

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—United British nudists today laid down the bare outlines of a five-year plan to replace the swim suit with the birthday suit.

Their final objective is legal nudity on the open seashore.

As a start, the British Sun Bathing Association—50,000 strong—will seek a ban on the use of suits in any public swimming pool in the United Kingdom. The stated reason: such garb contaminates the water.

The 3,000 delegates to the association's annual convention here agreed to demand a weekly nudist night at every pool as an opening wedge in their campaign.

Most of the pools—known here as "public baths"—are run by town and county councils. The nudist delegates also voted to:

1. Form a nudist chapter in every county of the British Isles.
  2. Launch a pressure campaign against police seizure of nudist magazines on obscenity grounds.
- The weather today was somewhat chilly and the delegates came fully clad. Each was identified by a badge consisting of a metal bear (bear, get it?) inscribed with the motto "Exposure with Composure."

Transcriptions Major Development In Radio

One of the main reasons that radio isn't likely to pass out of the entertainment picture for a long time, if ever, despite the recent rise of television, is the Frederick W. Ziv Co., two movie stars who haven't had much to do with radio heretofore.

Between now and Dec. 31, the firm intends investing $625,000 in making the transcriptions which will be sold to stations throughout the country to be sponsored by local advertisers. It is estimated that through guarantees-against-percentage of sales deals, Miss Dunne and MacMurray stand to gross about $300,000 each for the season. The production budget for each half-hour program has been estimated at $12,500.

As far as radio is concerned, the once-scorned transcription is now paying off. Earlier this year, Ziv picked up two other notables from Hollywood, Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart, and put them on transcriptions in a dramatic series called "Bold Adventure" to the tune of $600,000, and peddled it to sponsors in more than 500 cities in the U.S. and Canada.

The Ziv company points out that its radio activities have expanded just as rapidly as has television in that time.

WEATHER STOPS PLANE SEARCH

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28 (CP)—An R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue squadron aircraft has scoured Queen Charlotte Strait waters for the Seattle trawler Pluto, missing for a week with two men aboard, without avail.

Bad weather forced the Canso back to base here today.

The lost 34-foot trawler is feared to have sunk after springing a leak. Names of its crew members were not known here.

The search will continue Monday, weather permitting, in the Strait area, 200 miles northwest of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cheeseman with Camille.

NEW VICTORIANS

By GWEN CASH

I found Mrs. Cheeseman sitting disconsolately among a clutter of furniture at 1106 Newport Avenue. It had just arrived from Regina.

"Yes, we've bought the house," she told me. "And at the moment I'd like to walk right out and into a new, up-to-the-minute apartment. There is so much to do, so much I want to change and alter."

Mr. Cheeseman came in from shopping with a bottle of milk in his hand and we went over the house, room-by-room. It's roomy, with old fashion charm and heaps of opportunity for individuality. It's really too big. But we have a daughter who is getting to the party age and is serious about little theatre work and a son, who is at present, in Winnipeg.

I learned the daughter's name is Camille; the son's Kenneth. She is 12; he 20, and working for Proctor and Gamble.

"He started to go in for medicine," explained his father, "and quit for a big salary."

In Regina, Edward Cheeseman was with the postal service. He got a transfer to Victoria because of heart and high blood pressure.

"It isn't nearly as bad as it sounds," he assured me. "I'm lucky to get here, though, I had to take a demotion to come."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cheeseman have lived in Saskatchewan practically all their lives, though he was born in Brighton, England.

"I came to Regina the year of the great hurricane, when the town was laid flat and people whisked through the air in bathtubs."

Mrs. Cheeseman enjoys community and C.G.I.T. work.

Frenchman's Food Budget Hits Income

LONDON (CP). — A Frenchman spends more than half his income on food. English families spend less than a third.

The English, on the other hand, spend eight times as much as the French on rent. They spend about twice as much for fuel.

The French lead a more open-air life, go to bed earlier and get up earlier.

These conclusions on Anglo-French differences were reached after surveys among working-class families in the two countries. The results, published by the Institute of Statistics at Oxford, show that 52 per cent of French incomes were devoted to food, compared with only 31.9 of the English.

The surveys were made in 1948. The British Medical Journal, commenting on the "striking discrepancy" in food consumption, said one consolation is possible: it looked as though the "caloric" value of the national diets were roughly similar, though the French registered a substantially higher intake of animal protein.

PRIZED ADDITION

SASKATOON (CP). — A new radioactive cobalt unit, for use in cancer research and treatment, has been put into operation at the University of Saskatchewan's Hospital here.

CBC Offers Canadians Big Range Of Programs

In addition to presenting the best in Canadian talent, the CBC brings to its listeners some of the finest program fare available in the United States and England on a regular basis, with occasional contributions from other countries.

In planning program schedules, the CBC program personnel are not slaves to ratings as in the U.S. They do not feel that they must plan to meet the tastes of only one type of audience.

They believe that the lover of classical music has a right to expect more than a minor acknowledgment of his existence, and that he should be able to enjoy this music on more than a once-a-week basis. They also believe that farmer wants and needs not only a program of lively music in the early morning but also market prices and production information at noon when he can most conveniently listen, and that he can also benefit from a night-time program devoted to his many problems.

The Canadian listener on CBC receives a wide range of programs from which to choose. The same wide choice is not available to listeners in the United States and England, for various reasons. The reason for this in the United States is because the strictly commercial system under which radio is operating in America does not permit U.S. networks to carry many programs from other countries. In England, the number of exchange programs heard by the listener is limited because of geographical factors.

When the CBC started operating, they had in their fold, a system of eight publicly-owned or leased stations and 14 privately-owned stations, linked together by land-lines for only six hours daily (eight-and-a-half hours on Sundays).

A plan was drawn up and approved to give Canada the greatest possible national coverage, and at the present time, the CBC is at the point where network service in Canada now reaches 90 per cent of the population.

Reported Confessing Three Toronto Murders

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—William Gibson of Toronto, (CP).—A San Quentin prison murderer, awaiting execution in California, was reported today to have confessed that he killed three persons in Toronto in 1949.

Prison officials disclosed that 26-year-old Stanley Buckowski made the confession "so that somebody else won't be blamed."

Ironically, officials said, he was granted a temporary stay of execution after his confession and will face death in Canada if he escapes California's gas chamber.

Buckowski is awaiting execution for the murder in February, 1950, of Mrs. Helen Edmunds, 82, during a burglary of her Los Angeles home.

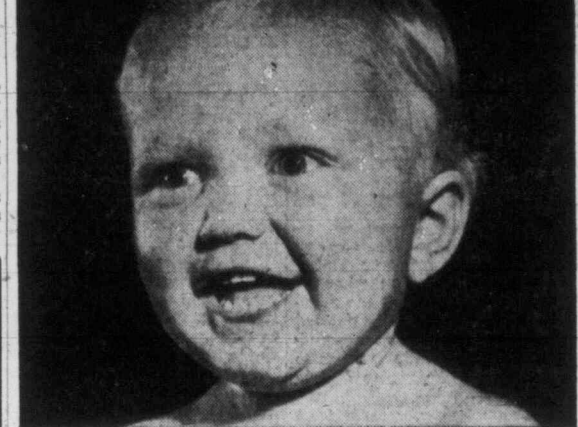

Buckowski, Associate Warden Harley O. Teets said, confessed last June—and twice since then—that he shot and killed Alfred Laying following a Toronto Supermarket hold-up, and later murdered Robert McKay and his wife, Gloria. The McKays were motorists he kidnapped in his flight.

Buckowski made two of his confessions to prison officials and a third to Crown Attorney when he found them in their car parked on a highway.

The man began running through red lights at 60 miles an hour, trying to attract attention. I told him I'd shoot him if he didn't stop. He laughed and said: 'Go ahead.'

"So I shot him. The woman screamed. So I shot her too."

New Coal Price Hike Ordered From Alberta

TOPICS of the TIMES

Grade "A" eggs dropped another notch today, giving weight to an earlier prediction by dealers that they would be down to 50 cents a dozen by Christmas.

Grade "A" large eggs dropped two cents a dozen by the new price change while Grade A large slipped three.

Teen-agers are believed by police to be responsible for a break-in at Buckfield's Ltd., 2105 Douglas, during the week-end.

A pane of glass was removed from a skylight to gain entry. About $3 in stamps were stolen.

A $2,100,000 sewer system approved by Saanich voters last December will soon take shape.

H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, was calling tenders today for construction of two pumping stations, two tunnels and a riding main to the northwest sewer.

All work will be in the Gorge Park area.

"Behave yourselves—don't do wilful damage that will endanger lives and homes."

That was the appeal of Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock today to the younger generation when they go out on their annual Halloween spree Wednesday night.

The chief also urged the public to treat the children who come calling for hand-outs with consideration.

"We don't want to be kill-joys. We want the kids to have fun, but will be on guard against wilful damage," he said.

The traffic light went "Go" in a big way.

Police said a car driven by Hugh C. Dunbar, 1318 Belmont, cracked into a Yates and Douglas lamp standard Sunday to which a traffic signal was attached.

The iron pole snapped and the light came tumbling down. Dunbar, escaped injury but his car was a sorry sight when the pole and signal crashed the roof.

A burglar used a ladder left by slingers to gain entry to a James Bay home during the week-end.

Mrs. T. Holmes, 205 Ontario Street, told police a revolver was stolen. The house was ransacked.

William Atkins, 719 Pandora Avenue, is believed to be the first person locally to receive the British Defense Medal for civilian defense during the Second World War.

Chinese Fight Over Validity Of Land Claim

A legal battle between two Chinese families over ownership of a Johnson Street property opened in Supreme Court Chambers here today.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Quan Yuen Hon and Raymond Kwan, executors of the estate of Jessie Quan, formerly of Victoria, who died in Seattle on September 17, 1949.

They claim that Lee-Chue, defendant, obtained a certificate of title to the property which was left to them by the deceased.

Te certificate did not bear the signature of the deceased but is a forgery, they alleged through their counsel, D. J. McAlpine of Vancouver.

Lee, represented by Joseph McKenna, K.C., denies the allegation and in a counter-claim seeks $7,750 from the plaintiffs.

WON'T ARGUE

Precautions Fail Driver; Car On Loose

It cost James Brierley, 425 Michigan, $10 in city police court today for not setting the brakes on his parked car.

The car "ran away" on Fairfield Road and collided with a fence. Accused said he'd set the brakes, put the gear in reverse and turned the wheels into the curb.

A policeman said he found the brakes released, the gears in neutral.

"I'll give you a remand so you can bring a competent mechanic to explain to the court how this could happen," Magistrate H. C. Hall told Brierley.

"And what happens if I don't want to do that?" asked accused.

"Well, I'll just find you guilty," said the magistrate with a smile. Brierley let it go at that.

Production Cost Given As Reason For Increase

Alberta coal prices jumped to new heights here today.

Coal produced by the McLeod River Hard Coal Co. Ltd. went 70 cents a ton higher for lump and 25 cents for egg and nut, dealers reported.

They said other Alberta coal mines are expected to follow the lead of the McLeod company and increase their prices accordingly.

The new increases put the price of McLeod River lump coal to $21 a ton, egg coal to $20.15 and nut coal at $16.55.

Reasons given by dealers for the price boost were higher production costs.

"The price increase was not anticipated and came as a complete surprise," said one dealer. "It is safe to say that all Alberta coal will be increased."

The bulk of the fuel used for domestic purposes in Victoria comes from Alberta. Vancouver Island coal is mainly used by commercial firms or by ships.

Island coal, however, is used as a domestic fuel to a greater extent in and around Nanaimo.

Most dealers were of the opinion that Vancouver Island coal would also go up in time in line with Alberta coal prices.

City firemen Sunday night extinguished a fire smoldering under a parlor hearth at 1460 Gladstone Avenue.

It was a blaze that could have become a major fire had it not been spotted at the time, firemen said.

SYMPHONY NEEDS FIDDLERS

Recordings Confirm Level Of Musical Accomplishment

The football coach who spends Sunday studying the film record of his team's performance in Saturday's big game has nothing on Walter Sundstin, tall, friendly Seattle Symphony Orchestra concert master.

At his room at the Strathcona Hotel today, Sundstin rubbed the sleep from his eyes.

"I was up half the night," he revealed. "A group of us were listening to the recordings of the Sunday afternoon Victoria student concert."

Sundstin, who will perform tonight as concert master for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra at the Royal Theatre, had served in a similar capacity Sunday afternoon.

The recorded version, he stated, bolstered the good opinion of the Victoria orchestra he had previously formed.

"It's a surprisingly good organization," Sundstin declared. "It has a lack of strings, but that isn't unusual. There's a dearth of top-notch fiddle players everywhere."

Sundstin had high praise for the Symphony Society's sponsorship of student concerts here, of which Sunday's was the first of four to be given this season.

City Streets Have Odd Hazards

Truck drivers like Bill Davies, left, have learned to watch city traffic carefully. They are very capable men at their jobs. But what if the road collapses under them? What chance then of avoiding an accident? That's what happened to this truck on Johnson, at Store, today. Bill is telling Jim Carter, right, all about it. (Times photo.)

GOT A PERMIT, BUB?

Beer Drought May Tempt Amateurs To Experiment

By WILLIAM RAYNER
If the brewery workers' strike has dried up your favorite "pub" and you're getting notions about making "home brew"—hold it a minute.

In addition to the brewer's malt extract, hops, sugar, yeast, pots, pans and bottles, there's the matter of a permit to make the stuff in your own home.

Overlooking that permit could make your batch of brew fairly expensive. There's a penalty of between $25 and $100 involved, or, if you don't have the money handy, a one to three months' stay in the bastille.

If the "revenue" catch you at it the second time, the treatment begins to get rough, with fines from $100 to $250, or in default of payment, from two to six months in jail, with hard labor.

Applications for permits are obtainable, without charge, from the nearest Collector of Customs and Excise. Applications must contain a request for permission to make beer for the sole use of the applicant and members of the family living in the same household, and not for sale, and must include a list of apparatus and utensils intended to be used in the process.

R.C.M.P. are in charge of investigating the applications, and anyone who has been convicted on a serious liquor charge will probably find it difficult to get through the screen.

Victoria customs office reported today that no appreciable increase in applications had been noted, possibly due to amateur beer-makers being unaware of the necessity of obtaining a permit.

"We average about one application a week," an official said. Meanwhile, wholesale grocers have not yet come up against a buying rush for home brew ingredients.

However, with beer parlors already beginning to close down, they're half expecting it.

Just in passing, if you have ideas about competing with the distillers in making spirits, don't go setting up a "still." For that they hit you with everything but the Ottawa Peace Tower.

Three Cheat Death As Car Snaps Pole

Fireworks 'Fizzle' Cost $1514

The fizzled fireworks for the Royal visit last Monday night cost Victoria $1,514.

The bill was received at City Hall today from F.T.S. Limited at Vancouver, which supplied the fireworks.

The night was stormy and evening rain which followed an afternoon gale, put an effective dampener on the more dramatic aspects of the show.

As a result of the weather, there were few onlookers.

In his letter to the city clerk G. C. R. Jackson, secretary of F.T.S. Limited, wrote:

"This confirms that due to the gale which sprang up Monday afternoon a large portion of the set piece fireworks, in spite of adequate guying with steel wire, were either blown down or demolished by the gale.

"While we were able to fire the greater part of the show, it was not possible to utilize the main set pieces."

The pieces were re-assembled and re-created for storage purposes for use on another occasion.

Langford Men Painfully Hurt, In Hospital After Sunday Crash; Two In 'Fair' State

Three residents of Millstream Road, Langford, were injured seriously in a car which sheared off a telephone pole at Carey and Glanford early Sunday.

In Jubilee Hospital are:

F. Donnelly, 27, chest injuries, upper jaw fracture and other fractures; condition, "fairly good."

Alvin Oranger, 15, upper jaw broken, other possible fractures; condition, "satisfactory."

H. Newman, 25, reported as the driver, head and leg injuries; condition, "fairly good."

Police said a 1947 two-door sedan driven by Newman ran head-on into the pole at 12:45 Sunday morning.

The pole, carrying 60,000-volt high-tension wires, was snapped at the base. Car was considered almost total wreck.

Attending the accident for Saanich police were Sgt. Jack Hamilton, Constables Harry Adams, Robert Adrian, Robert Coleman and Leslie Ledson.

City police sent an ambulance.

War-Time Inventor, E. H. Scott Dies After Storybook Career

Ernest Humphrey Scott, 64, of 3441 Mayfair Drive, Mount Tolmie, retired radio manufacturer and noted amateur movie-maker, died suddenly at his home Saturday afternoon.

Death was due to a heart attack.

Born at Dunedin, New Zealand, and orphaned at the age of 14, he became a messenger boy, then a salesman, and served with Australian forces in World War I.

Serving with a transport unit, he invented a trouble-locating device for use in internal combustion engines, which he offered to the British War Office. When they did not buy it, he sold it in the United States, using the proceeds to establish a radio manufacturing business in Chicago, which became internationally famous.

He became president of Scott Radio Laboratories, the fourth oldest manufacturers of radio receivers, using his own designs.

He retired in 1945, and made his home here four years ago. He was a member of the Victoria Rotary Club.

Jeanette McDonald Wears White Satin For Wedding

Gowned in shimmering white satin was Jeanette Elyonne McDonald when she exchanged vows Saturday evening with Norman Lawrence Higgins.

Canon George Biddle officiated in St. John's Anglican Church at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Violet McDonald, 3009 Scott Street and the late Mr. Alex McDonald and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Higgins, Glen Lake, V.I.

Chrysanthemums in autumn tones decorated the church. Frederick Chubb was at the organ.

Bruce McDonald gave his sister in marriage.

The bride's gown was styled with lace yoke and inset and lily point sleeves. Her floor-length embroidered net veil fell in graceful folds from a pearl coronet. A string of pearls, gift of the groom, was the only jewelry. The bouquet was of red roses and white gardenias with white heather and maiden hair fern.

Miss Eleanor Clunk, maid of honor, wore pastel pink and the bridesmaids, Mrs. B. Higgins and Mrs. J. Mawdsley chose yellow and pastel green respectively. Gowns were styled identically in nylon over taffeta and featured matching shoulder effect chapel veil and long mitts. They carried waterfall bouquets of pastel chrysanthemums.

Donald Higgins was best man and Frank Jones and Chuck Bennett ushers.

William Clunk, a friend of the family, proposed the toast at a reception held at Loughdees Banquet Hall. Flanked by white candles and autumn flowers, the three-tier wedding cake on a lace cloth, centred the bride's table.

For a trip to Vancouver, Seattle and Portland Mrs. Higgins changed into a mauve knitted suit with a black fur coat. Black accessories and an orchid corsage complemented her ensemble.

Nancy Asselstine Is A Bride In Recent Mainland Ceremony

Tacoma will be the home of Byron Irwin Larsen and his bride, the former Nancy Ellen Asselstine, of Vancouver and Seattle, whose marriage was solemnized recently in Shaughnessy Heights United Church, Vancouver.

Rev. C. M. Stewart performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James Asselstine of Vancouver, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Larsen, Tacoma.

Ralph Salee, Seattle, was best man and the bride's brother, James W. Asselstine and Bruce Beebe traveled from Bellingham to be ushers.

The champagne-toned wedding gown was fashioned from broad-corded taffeta over crinoline with deep pleats on the three-quarter length skirt. A tiny bolero topped the strapless bodice and the coronet headdress and illusion veil were of matching material. Tailsman roses and chrysanthemums were wedding flowers.

A velveteen gown in deep turquoise was the choice of Miss Joyce Crabtree, maid of honor. A small-brimmed hat and a bouquet of bronze mums completed her ensemble.

The newlyweds left on a motor trip south following a reception in Killarney Hall. For traveling, the bride donned a mauve dressmaker suite with matching sailor hat, black accessories and white topcoat.

Among the many out-of-town guests were the bride's aunts, Mrs. W. R. Sullivan and Mrs. C. L. Grisdale of Ontario.

Mrs. Larsen has many friends in Victoria where she spent her childhood days.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Spend Time And Energy For Greatest Returns

Upkeep! "The upkeep is so great." How often I have heard that phrase, especially since we have been looking for a house to buy. Anything which has some special charm seems to be prohibitive because of upkeep!

However, we have upkeep and overhead on anything which has real meaning for us. There is a tremendous amount of upkeep on friendship, marriage, love and children. What is upkeep to one person may be investment in sheer happiness to another.

To me, the horrible extravagance is to spend our limited energy or money on people or things we do not really care about, to the extent of not being able to spend them on those we understand. We must weigh these choices very carefully because we have only a certain amount of energy or money. Others may not understand your choices at all. That isn't important so long as you do not hurt others in making your choice.

Yet most people do not think of this. They buy what seems to be sensible and allow their life's energy to be sapped by those who would get along just as well without them but who leave no time for those people and activities which have special individual value.

There is a fine perception which lies dormant in most of us. Whenever possible take to your heart what you recognize as your own. Of course some have less choice than others. Some know fewer people and have very little money but there is always that leeway of choice. Perhaps someone you know has uncultivated manners but has an understanding attitude or a fine sense of humor. Maybe you see a house which is in poor condition but behind the cracked paint you sense its great potential charm.

Even if you have virtually no choice, there is always someone who clicks with your understanding or some house which has a tree in the yard you love to look at or a bit larger plot of grass or a picture window, or adapts itself to future development.

Quite a few years ago I decided I would not buy any more furniture I did not want to keep always. As a result our interior decoration still has some rough spots in it but there is the inlaid Mexican chest, the gold leaf mirror and other things which give me a conscious lift whenever I see them.

In people I have invested in friends I have loved and I have had some disappointments, as does everyone, but very few, although many of the people I know do not understand why I love the others.

Do not waste your energy or your money by always making the expected and mundane choice.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

London Sees Smart Range Of Woollens

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP)—Each year as temperatures drop, shop windows beckon with exciting examples of the latest ways to keep warm.

From the dark, heavy and often stiff fabrics of a century ago wool manufacturers have developed a versatile range of textiles that get better all the time.

With woollen materials ranging from diaphanous weaves with the transparency of organdy, to the knobby-surfaced, loosely-woven fabrics of grandmother's day, there are stylish clothes for every hour and occasion.

This year's winter coats, for instance, range from travel coats in closely-knit naps and reps lined with wool or fur, to the smooth sleekness of serge and barathra town coats with tiny waists, full skirts and stylish collars trimmed in mink or Persian lamb.

One of the most interesting new uses of wool is in evening capes brushing the ground in train-effect. Mostly in long-haired fabrics, the capes are simple in design and in many cases are lined with light-weight wools that give cosy warmth to bare shoulders. Worn over crinoline dresses they recall the days of horse-drawn carriages when fur coats were unknown.

PLUG GIVEN MASCULINE COOKS

"But," acknowledged Harding, who formerly represented the BBC in Canada, "she makes the cakes, puddings and pastry."

Victoria's Scots Fire Chief To Relinquish Hot Spot Post To London-Born Colleague

By ROY THORSEN
A Scotsman will relinquish command of the Victoria Fire Department to a Londoner Tuesday night.

On that night members of the local fire brigade will bid farewell to their fire chief, Robert T. Brindle. He will write his 39 years of fire-fighting service to the city; four years as chief and 30 years as an officer of the department.

Taking over the reins of the department will be Deputy Chief Frank Briers, who was born in London. He will be acting-chief for a period. Frank joined the department in 1916, two years after coming to Canada.

Chief Brindle has been at every major fire scene in the city since he took over "but when you ask me which one I think was the most spectacular or worst—well, I just couldn't single out any one; but there were a lot of bad ones over the years."

HORSES I HIS DAY

Born in Roxburghshire, Scotland, close to the border, Chief Brindle came to the department in 1912 when the fire-fighting equipment was still horse-drawn.

"Chief Tom Davis then had his second chief's motorized vehicle, a Speedwell. I drove him around on fire calls and other business," said the retiring chief.

He said that this was the period that marked the start of the conversion from horses to motorized equipment.

"I've enjoyed the experience of being a fireman, but have always realized that with the constant improvements in equipment and the more thought being given to fire-fighting tactics, that you can never stop learning new and better ways to tackle fires," said the chief.

Chief Brindle is quite frank about the value of the press in fire-fighting.

EDUCATION VALUE

"Newspaper can be invaluable in the field of fire-prevention—helping us to educate the public to eliminate fire causes in the home, the factory, the hotel and apartment house," Bob declared.

Like a lot of people being superannuated these days, Brindle has got to look for other work to

LANGLEY STREET
BEHIND THE SIGNS
WITH Jim Nesbitt

Langley Street, in the downtown business area, was named for the Langley brothers, Alfred and James, pioneer Victoria druggists. Their business, started on lower Yates Street in 1858, was called Apothecaries Hall.

Alfred J. Langley, the more prominent of the two brothers, had been a druggist in San Francisco before establishing himself in Victoria. He became a close friend of Governor Douglas who in 1861 appointed him a provincial member of the Legislative Council.

Mr. Langley was active in public affairs. He was a justice of the peace, a member of the Board of Education, and a savings bank commissioner. His home, "The Maples," was built on a high rock just east of Five Points.

The Langley brothers died within a few months of each other—James in November, 1888, and Alfred in April, 1889.

One of the better Broadway's fairly recent comedies came to life, Saturday night, on the stage of the Victoria Theatre Guild, Langham Court.

It was both played and directed with vitality and understanding; the author's concept and intention faithfully adhered to; the characterizations sustained with remarkable consistency.

The near-capacity first night audience was laughing all the way. Spontaneous bursts of applause paid tribute to the inimitable acting of Margaret

Hall in Judy Holliday's role of "Billie Dawn."

Some doubt has been expressed outside the theatre as to the capability of anyone adequately filling the Holliday shoes! The sceptics are now triumphantly invited to come and see for themselves! Margaret is lovely, alluring, elemental and Brooklyn!

Tying close for top-acting honors, Don Ross is ideally cast, playing with deadly seriousness a role that would be ruined if the actor were at all comedy-conscious. We doubt if it would be possible to find, anywhere, off the professional stage—an actor capable of improving on this performance.

Ken Bostock was convincing as the intellectual reporter—slightly less so as the victim of "Billie's" charms. Bernard Gillie's portrayal of the submerged legal brain was clean-cut but restrained to exactly the right degree.

Terry Gower's streamlined stage design provided a note of luxury and modernity that added the last ounce of conviction to a show for which congratulations are in order all round; to the costume designers and particularly Margaret Hall, who designed and made her own; to the construction crew who built such a substantial set and to the electricians under Harold Grant, who were responsible for excellent lighting.

To Barbara Smythe, the director, who has given the Theatre Guild another tip-top production that can stand proudly in an imposing line-up of good shows.

Critically speaking, although the tempo was good, there were a few dropped cues. And how about that ending? Did the curtain come down a night too soon?

But those are things that no doubt will smooth themselves out as the show continues its run through next week to Nov. 3.

Ambassador Stanley Woodward... pays surprise visit.

DIPLOMAT A VISITOR

Royal Pair Charming Says U.S. Ambassador

Stanley Woodward, United States ambassador to Canada, was a Victoria visitor over the week-end.

Mr. Woodward flew to Vancouver from Ottawa in a U.S. embassy plane with the Hon. Alexander Clutterbuck, British high commissioner, and Veterans' Affairs Minister Milton Gregg, V.C.

All three were awarded honorary degrees at the annual fall convocation of U.B.C. Friday, at the new $750,000 War Memorial gymnasium. Mr. Woodward gave the convocation address.

Saturday morning Mr. Woodward flew to Victoria for a two-day, unofficial visit. He was met at Patricia Bay Airport by Frederick W. Hinkle, U.S. consul in Victoria.

It was the U.S. ambassador's second visit to this city this year. He was last here in May, on a speaking tour of Canadian clubs.

POPULAR IN OTTAWA

The ambassador, described in the current issue of Time magazine as "one of the most popular U.S. diplomats ever assigned to Ottawa," lunched Saturday at the Union Club with Time's editor Bruce Hutchison and several members of the Ottawa embassy.

Later he played golf at Oak Bay and was guest at an informal dinner at the Hinkle residence, Uplands Road.

Sunday morning Mr. Woodward went riding in the Uplands area. Later in the day he explained for his return trip east.

The ambassador, who was a

Lana Turner Plans Heavy Work Schedule In Future

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29 (AP)—Lana Turner, whose marriage to Bob Topping recently blew up, plans a heavy dose of work and travel to forget her troubles.

The famed former sweater girl seemed unusually gay on the set of her current film, "The Merry Widow."

"From now on, it's nothing but work and travel for me," Lana said. I didn't ask if that meant the exclusion of men, such a situation being difficult to imagine.

"I'd like to make a really smart comedy," she remarked. "That's what the public wants and it's too bad that there aren't more of them. After that, I'd like to do a real epic. I'd love to play the role of Helen of Troy."

Lana takes off for Europe immediately after the finish of her picture. She'll see all the sights and send for her daughter if conditions are favorable over there.

Lana is sporting a trim chassis these days, but she said it's work and not diet that has taken off the pounds.

"I'm lucky in that I don't like desserts," she said. "They just don't appeal to me and so I never have to put myself on a rigid diet."

Besides, I think all the fuss about actresses' weight is overdone in Hollywood. I think most men don't want girls who are skinny."

Depression May Follow In Wake Of World Peace

ROME, Oct. 29 (UP)—A widespread depression, first in the United States and then in other industrialized countries, may follow the end of the Korean war, the United Nations food and agriculture organization said today.

The F.A.O. in its yearly "Review and Outlook" said the total output of food in 1950-51 was higher than last year, but appeared pessimistic about the future. It said figures for Russia show food output in the U.S.S.R. was "higher than in any postwar year."

"The economic effects of the Korean situation seem likely to continue in 1951-1952 and 1952-1953, probably with a continued general expansionary situation and with a high and increasing demand for agriculture products," the report said.

"If the fighting ends in Korea and international tensions lessens, some reductions of inventories, of finished goods might occur and prices of agricultural products and other raw materials decline for a time, accompanied by a general downward movement in price levels," the F.A.O. reported.

"Ordinarily, this might cause a retrenchment in investments with resulting widespread depression, first in the U.S.A. and then in other industrialized countries."

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Princess Makes Side-Trip To Visit Rivers' Veterans

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
RIVERS, Man. Oct. 28 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were welcomed back to Manitoba today by a cheering throng of 60,000 persons, including 120 wounded veterans who travelled 135 miles to see them.

The Royal couple flew into the joint air training centre here at 3:03 p.m. (C.S.T.) today from Saskatoon.

In a one-hour stop, they received the cheers of farmers and townfolk from rural Manitoba. And they brought cheer to the veterans as they spent 15 minutes with them alone.

The veterans had been disappointed when no stop was made at military hospitals during the Royal couple's visit to Winnipeg Oct. 16. Government and army officials arranged the special trip to Rivers, and the Royal couple doubled the scheduled length of their stop.

They left for Fort William by air.

Despite windy, cloudy weather and a temperature of 30 degrees the veterans sat and lay on stretchers in a special outside enclosure while the Princess and the Duke moved amongst them. They spoke to about half.

Along the parade route of two and one-half miles, visitors stood four and five deep to cheer the Royal couple travelling in a red convertible.

Day To Remember

REGINA, Oct. 28 (CP).—F. Mather of Estevan, President of the Saskatchewan Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, today urged that "Nov. 11 only be observed as Remembrance Day."

Nov. 12, if accepted as a holiday, means nothing, Mr. Mather said in a prepared statement.

Mr. Mather contended that Remembrance Day should not be observed as a holiday "in the general acceptance of the world."

Rather, he said, it is a day "when everyone would be able to have time off from their labors to pay proper tribute to those who have given their lives that we might enjoy freedom."

3 Killed In Crash

DAUPHIN, Man., Oct. 28 (CP).—Three persons were killed and three injured Saturday in a two-car collision 8½ miles west of here. Dauphin is 170 northwest of Winnipeg.

Dead are: Fred Popolinsky, 55; Reginald David Moore, 53, of Dauphin and 17-year-old Julia Smetamuk of Swan River.

Miss Smetamuk and Moore were passengers in an automobile driven by Popolinsky which collided head-on with one driven by Glen Knott of Gilbert Plains. He is in critical condition in Dauphin Hospital.

Two other passengers in the Popolinsky vehicle—Sam Gashena of Dauphin and Elsie Liwiski of Gilbert Plains—are in Dauphin Hospital. Extent of their injuries is not known.

HOSPITAL PROBE CRISIS BREWING

Legislative Inquiry Members Incensed At Minister's Stand

It was reported in government circles this afternoon that Opposition Leader Harold Winch may resign from the Legislature's special Hospital Insurance Inquiry Board.

A sharp clash between the Legislature's special hospital insurance inquiry board and the provincial cabinet created a delicate situation today on the B.C. political scene.

Liberal cabinet ministers were still conferring on the problem, and although no formal statements have been made, it may lead to serious repercussions.

Focal point is the attack made by Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull Saturday on a recommendation made by the inquiry board that cuts made by the B.C.H.I.S. in hospital budgets should be restored.

The inquiry board—in a recommendation which the government at first kept dark, then released in the Legislature—said there had been "no rhyme or reason" in the cutting of hospital budgets.

At a meeting Saturday night in Woodsworth Hall here C.C.F. leader Harold Winch, also a member of the inquiry board, declared Turnbull should either resign his cabinet post or demand the board's resignation.

Turnbull, in reply, criticized the inquiry board as not having obtained all the facts about the budget cuts.

Immediately Turnbull's statement appeared, Sidney Smith, M.L.A. for Kamloops, held a long conference with Premier Johnson and Liberal cabinet members Saturday afternoon.

He said Turnbull tried to influence the board to withdraw the recommendation because he didn't like it.

"Because he didn't like one of the recommendations, he issued a blast at us," Winch declared.

The hospital inquiry board was appointed by the Legislature at its spring session and has been sitting at numerous points in the province during the summer.

Two weeks ago it made five interim recommendations of which the government adopted four, dealing with premium delinquency and other phases of the insurance scheme. The fifth concerned the hospital budget cuts.

The board is slated to hold further sittings before drafting its final report to the House next spring.

Won't Take Dictation

Smith this morning had further meetings with the government, but neither he nor Turnbull would make any statement.

Don Brown, M.L.A. for Burrard, also a board member, declared in Vancouver: "He (referring to Turnbull) thinks he is right. We think we are right. It's up to him to prove us wrong. We were given certain wide powers and we intend to use them."

"We are not going to take dictation from anybody. We will not be pushed around. We'll stay and do a job. There never has been a government board with so much responsibility on it as this one. There is entire unity on the board."

Winch termed Turnbull's statements "completely unethical," adding they were tantamount to want of confidence in the board.

"If anybody knows anything about hospital insurance it is the inquiry board," he declared. "We sat down with 56 hospital boards, and heard their problems."

First Tavern Taps Dry; Beer Strike Cuts Supply

One Esquimalt tavern has been forced to close its doors because of the brewery strike; and most of its competitors face the same prospect in about three days.

First place to have its tap run dry is Tudor House. It closed Saturday night and will remain closed until the strike ends and the flow of beer begins again.

Halfway House in Esquimalt has sufficient draught beer for today and enough bottled beer for about three days after that.

Operators of Colwood Hotel and Six Mile premises reported enough beer for "a few days yet."

A spokesman for the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans' Association in Victoria said the supply there would last until about Wednesday.

The three Legion branches in town have a very limited stock which is not expected to last till the end of the week, and which could go dry in a matter of days.

"It all depends on how thirsty the boys get," one Legion branch secretary declared.

The Tillamook Athletic Club has beer for a couple of days, it was learned. Eagles and Elks' homes are in a more favorable position and have sizeable stocks on hand which will carry them into next week, if not longer.

As far as the strike is concerned, there is still no sign of settlement. The Brewery Workers Union is keeping its 24-hour picket line around Praelius Brewery on Government Street.

E. C. Sims, chief union spokesman, said in Vancouver over the weekend:

"There is no indication the strike will be a long one. It was six days old today."

VANCOUVER HIT
VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—The beer famine in Vancouver is becoming more serious and beer parlor patrons face a dry future for a time at least.

At least two Vancouver beer parlors are displaying "sold out" signs. Others are serving only small quantities of bottled beer, and a few that still have some draught beer report their taps will be dry by tonight.

"I thought at first it was just water, but after a while my eyes started smarting," Smith told police. Police took him to hospital and he returned home.

At 2 Sunday morning, the war veteran, now in agony, telephoned for help and was taken to hospital.

Today his face is a mass of burns pock marks from the forehead to the chin.

TORTURE LITTLE BOY
In another pre-Halloween incident, Vancouver police reported that seven-year-old Donald Stuart of that city suffered serious burns when a firecracker exploded in his nose.

According to Mrs. Stewart, Donald was held by two youths, who inserted the firecracker in his nose and set it alight.

British Shoot Egypt Woman

Country Moves Toward Complete War Footing With General Troop Mobilization

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 29 (AP).—A British military spokesman said today an Egyptian woman was killed and her male companion wounded by British troops who fired on their automobile as they tried to crash through a British roadblock in the embattled Suez Canal zone.

The spokesman said an Egyptian officer immediately made an official protest against the shooting, which occurred Sunday night after a week-end lull in the canal zone.

Egypt meanwhile moved to ward a war footing.

The Egyptian State Council, which has the status of a supreme court, Sunday approved general mobilization of manpower and drafting of all Egyptians between 18 and 50 "in case of war or threat of war."

It also provided for setting up a high council of war headed by Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasha.

This latest move in the British-Egyptian squabble over the Suez and the Sudan needs only formal cabinet approval to become law.

The council acted as Egypt's official informed Britain of her parliamentary act two weeks ago junking the two treaties providing for British sharing in the defence of the Suez Canal and in the rule of the vast cotton-growing Sudan.

Britain has refused to recognize the one-sided act and has poured thousands of troops reinforcements into the canal zone. She holds military control of the canal, despite Egyptian labor, food and water supply boycotts.

Sources close to the government said the cabinet would speed final approval of the bill "to be ready for any developments."

There appeared to be some confusion over Sunday night's shooting, which occurred at Tel el Kebir, 20 miles west of Ismailia, scene of bloody rioting two weeks ago.

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Oct. 29 (AP).—The pro-Egyptian Ashiga party said today the Sudan constituent commission has no authority to speak for the Sudan's 8,000,000 people.

A statement in Khartoum, official party organ, assailed the British-appointed commission for asking the United Nations to set up an international commission to supervise steps toward self-government in the Sudan.

Royal Couple In Montreal But First Meet Famed 5

DORVAL, Que., Oct. 29 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived by air today to the plaudits of Montrealers gathered at this suburban airport.

It was pretty well come down when the aircraft bearing the royal couple arrived over this broad tarmac.

But that had little bearing on the enthusiasm of the crowd. For a small hamlet, such as Dorval, things were gay. Flags flew from the factories surrounding the airport and the railway stations.

The official touchdown time for the royal plane from North Bay, Ont., was given as 4:27 p.m. From Dorval, about 14 miles to the west of Montreal, a triumphant, gaily decorated route lay ahead of the royal motorcade on its way into the city.

NORTH BAY, Ont.—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip found the smiling Dionne quintuplets awaiting them.

As hundreds of other greeters looked on, the famous quintuplets, dressed in identical grey flannel suits and red velvet hats, were presented to the royal couple in the official receiving line. They gave the Princess an autographed photograph of themselves.

Papa Oliva Dionne, Mrs. Dionne and a brother of the quintuplets, Claud, 5, also met Elizabeth and her husband. The Dionnes had driven here from their Callender home, 14 miles south of here.

BULLETINS

Plane Search

MOUNT VERNON, Wash., Oct. 29 (UPI).—Air force, coast guard and civil air patrol planes were searching today for a light plane missing on a flight from Bellingham to Seattle with a family of four aboard.

Aboard the plane were Richard G. Mortensen, 32, his wife, Moye, 31, and their two children, Russell, 8, and Kathleen, 5.

Decorate Canadians

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (CP).—Fifty wounded Korean veterans—including two Canadians—rode up Broadway in 25 jeeps today and were greeted at city hall by Mayor Vincent Impellitteri.

The mayor pinned New York's medal of honor on each of the men.

Cpl. John Roy of Montreal and P.O. Thomas Dawe of Vancouver were the Canadians among the veterans.

Youth Found

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 29 (CP).—A search party organized by the R.C.M.P. has found 17-year-old Gordon Beecroft of Kamloops, unharmed after being lost overnight in the Red Lake district west of Tranquille. He had become separated from his companion while hunting on Sunday.

In the east they seized a hill and gained up to 1,000 yards after turning back three separate night attacks.

In the air Sunday, Allied and Russian-made jets battled for the eighth straight day. The Fifth Air Force said one Red Mig was shot down and another destroyed in three battles involving 64 U.S. Sabre jets and 160 enemy jets.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL
MUNSA, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP).—Allied and Communist negotiators failed again today to make any progress toward agreement on location of an armistice buffer zone in Korea.

"Today's discussions were completely inconclusive," the official U.N. spokesman announced.

Wins On 47th Try

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP).—Kader, a five-year-old Argentine gelding, finally won a race today on the 47th try.

Joe Pepp's chestnut charger came up fast in the stretch at Jamaica under Willie Shoemaker's handling to win by a neck over Revenger.

Screaming Chinese Repulsed

U.N. Forces Retain Hard-Won Positions

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP).—Screaming Chinese Communists three times today charged an Allied-held hill mass south-east of Kumsong but failed to regain the positions Allied forces took three days ago.

A front-line dispatch said the pre-dawn attacks kicked off in company strength at 1:30 a.m. and built up to battalion size three hours later.

Mortar fire pounded Allied infantrymen as the Reds rolled down a slope facing the U.N.-held hills on the central front.

On the western front Allied forces slogged forward as much as 1,200 yards.

In the east they seized a hill and gained up to 1,000 yards after turning back three separate night attacks.

In the air Sunday, Allied and Russian-made jets battled for the eighth straight day. The Fifth Air Force said one Red Mig was shot down and another destroyed in three battles involving 64 U.S. Sabre jets and 160 enemy jets.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL
MUNSA, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP).—Allied and Communist negotiators failed again today to make any progress toward agreement on location of an armistice buffer zone in Korea.

"Today's discussions were completely inconclusive," the official U.N. spokesman announced.

EDEN IN ACTION

U.K. Final Results In

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters).—The final results of last Thursday's British general election came in today, leaving Winston Churchill's Conservative government with an overall majority in the House of Commons of 18.

The last constituency to report was the Western Isles—the fishing isles off the Scottish coast—where M. K. Macmillan was re-elected as a Labor member.

Earlier today, the Argyll constituency in West Scotland reported the re-election of Conservative Major Duncan MacCallum.

Only one constituency now is without a representative in parliament. That is Barnsley, where the death of the Labor candidate forced postponement of the election.

The latest return leaves standing in the 625-seat house:

Labor	294
Conservatives	321
Liberals	6
Others	3
Deferred	1

In Western Isles, Macmillan had a margin of 1,330 over the Conservative candidate—1,007 less than in 1950.

He received 8,039 votes as against 6,709 for Conservative J. Mitchell, 916 for Liberal D. Murray and 820 for M. McLean, Scottish Nationalist.

The Argyll race was a two-party contest.

Liberal Leader Rejects Government Cabinet Bid

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP).—The Liberal's conditionally promised their six House of Commons votes Sunday night to bolster the narrow Conservative majority, but Liberal Leader Clement Davies said "no" to a cabinet bid from Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The Liberals said their six members would swell the Tories' 18-seat majority on "measures clearly conceived in the interest of the country as a whole."

Davies, however, after a second week-end conference with Churchill, announced he "felt unable to accept" the Conservative leader's offer of a post in the cabinet. The Prime Minister still was firming.

Churchill has named eight key members to his government, and hoped to complete the line-up before parliament reconvenes Wednesday.

Order Tehran Ambassador Back For London Meeting

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden directed Britain's ambassador in Tehran today to return to London immediately for consultation on the Anglo-Iranian oil row.

Eden's action was his first publicly announced official move since taking over as foreign secretary in the new Conservative government of Winston Churchill.

Britain's envoy in the Iranian capital is Sir Francis Shepherd. His recall presumably means that Eden is seeking a way to reopen the stalled negotiations with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's billion-dollar properties.

As matters now stand, Iran is in physical possession of the properties—including the huge Abadan refinery. The international court at The Hague recommended in July that a five-man board be chosen to supervise continued operation of the properties under British management, pending further negotiation. Iran turned the idea down.
